Producers: Consider These Questions Before Merger Decision

Ken Bailey and Jim Dunn
Penn State University

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Members of Maryland & Virginia, Land O'Lakes, and a Texas- and Arkansas-based dairy cooperative recently received a letter of intent to merge their dairy operations. The proposal is to form a new entity called the Advantage Dairy Group, which would become a fluid division under Land O'Lakes.

This is the latest of many mergers among agricultural cooperatives.

Dairy producers who are members of these four cooperatives have the responsibility of deciding whether or not the merger is a good idea. A number of fall informational meetings have been arranged to allow members to study the proposed merger. But what thought process should members go through before casting their vote concerning the proposed merger?

Mergers are common in the U.S. economy. Publicly-traded companies go through a formal process and are required to provide lots of information. They have to deal with individual investors, Wall Street analysts, editors of financial magazines, and others in the news media. For example, on April 5, Suiza Foods Corporation (NYSE: SZA) and Dean Foods Company (NYSE: DF) announced they have signed a definitive agreement under which the two companies will merge to form a national dairy and specialty foods company with $10 billion in revenue. At the time of the announcement, both companies released financial data on their separate companies, as well as the proposed entity. Then, on HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board (PMMB) has agreed to conduct an emergency hearing to reconsider the over-order premium paid to Pennsylvania milk producers.

Dairylea Cooperative Inc. and Dairy Farmers of America Northeast Council petitioned the board Wednesday for the hearing, which they hope will result in an increase in the premium from its current $1.10 per hundredweight plus $.25 per hundredweight for high fuel costs.

This June, after hearing testimony from various representatives of the dairy industry, the three-member board had lowered the premium from $1.40 to $1.10, while maintaining the

SPRUCE CREEK (Huntingdon Co.) — Though the days shorten, the sunsets make for some pleasant evenings. The annual Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council (PFGC) summer picnic was conducted here at Harpster's Evergreen Farm Aug. 15 during Ag Progress Days, just a few miles down the road on Rt. 45 between Warriors Mark and Spruce Creek. A Maze In The Making WARRINGTON (Bucks Co.) — The past month has been especially busy for Bill Garges, at left, his son Bob, and Kevin Kinney, who are joined by Bob's son Gavin, 5, a fifth generation farmer. They milk 100 cows and farm 900 acres of "Winding Brook Farm," the host of a corn maze that opened to the public on Friday. Despite this year's drought, corn stands tall enough to provide a challenge for visitors weaving their way across the six acres of cornfield. The design is in the shape of a cow and calf in addition to the large "Got Milk?" question traced into the field. Other educational exhibits, a hay maze, and hay rides provide a chance for schoolchildren and other visitors to learn about farming. According to Garges, the maze provides not only a chance to teach the public, but also help the farm's bottom line economics. Watch for more about the farm and maze in the Oct. 13 issue of Lancaster Farming's Corn Talk.

Migrant Ed Program Reaches 11,000 Pa. Children

MILLERSVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — If education is the key to the future, then more children will be holding keys because of the work of those involved in the Pennsylvania Migrant Education Program.

Numbers testify to the scope of educational need of migrant children. For instance, approximately 1,400 students in Lancaster County alone will receive more educational attention because of the program. In Pennsylvania 11,000 children are served in 139 school district in 46 counties.

The Circuit

From North Carolina's tobacco fields to the East Coast's blueberry patches to the Susquehanna Valley's peach, apple, and pear orchards, migrant families move on the average of five to 10 times per year.

Most of them have combined annual income of $10,000 or less and did not graduate from high school. Hispanic peoples make up 87 percent of migrant families. However people from Russia, Bosnia, and Vietnam have also moved to U.S. to look for work, according to Jenny Carranza, who works to recruit families into the program.

Carranza adds that migrant workers may also be Americans who move consistently for work. Some of the workers follow a circuit that takes them from one area to another year-round, while other families work six months a year then, go back to Mexico or Puerto Rico — two areas where many workers originate.

Migrant workers are hired in Pennsylvania for everything from nursery and greenhouse work to employment on dairy farms for increased ice cream production over the summer. Mushroom production is another draw for agricultural work. Orchard and vineyard owners may also need seasonal labor.

The large- and small-scale beef, pork, turkey, and chicken processing plants in Pennsylvania are another employer. Employees that work in meat processing often move around because of the large employee turnover in these operations. Their jobs are considered temporary and they qualify for assistance, said Juan Biblioni.

Biblioni is recruitment and data manager for the three projects in Lancaster, Berks, and Lehigh Valley areas. These three project areas are administrated from a center at Millersville University.

Delmarva Broiler/Fryer
ATLANTA, GA.
September 5, 2001
Report Supplied By USDA

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was mostly moderate. Seller offerings were often noted as tight to well cleared mainly due to plants not processing on the Labor Day Holiday. Live supplies were mostly moderate; weights varied from plant to plant in a full range of light to heavy. Processing schedules were moderately heavy. Less than truck-lot asking prices were 1 cent higher at 58 to 72 cents. Trade sentiment was fully steady. In the parts complex, both volumes and items offered varied, and product was held with varying degrees of confidence. Wings were in seasonally good demand. Northeast Broiler Fryer Parts Part I

ATLANTA, GA.
September 5, 2001
Report Supplied By USDA

rucklot buying activity was about fair during midweek trading, but was sufficient to keep the bulk of product moving satisfactorily through the market place. Offerings of boneless-skinless breasts were at least adequate, but bone-in breasts were well cleared. Legs and leg quarters were in a closer balanced position today. Wings were short.

Retail and distributive movement ranged fair to moderate, best for the scattered feature activity. The market tone was firm on wings, at least steady on bone-in breasts, legs and leg quarters, and about steady on the balance. Daily National Grain Market Summary

St. Joseph, MO
September 5, 2001
Report Supplied By USDA

Daily National Grain Market Summary

Grain and soybean bids finished steady to slightly lower. Little new news giving to corn and soybean markets. Fair weekly crop rating numbers this week provided little direction for traders. Wheat bids were mixed 2 cents lower to 2 cents higher. Corn 1 cents lower. Sorghum 2 cents lower. Soybeans 2 to 6 cents lower.

Wheat bids were lower after added pressure from corn and soybean markets. Lack of significant news and poor export interest limiting declines. Corn prices were slightly lower. Crop rating numbers was at 53 percent good to excellent, down 2 percent from last week. Harvest is underway for corn and soybeans lending light pressure to bids. Soybean were lower after lack of fresh news to sway bids. Crop rating were left unchanged at 52 percent good to excellent from a week ago. EXPORT SALES: PURCHASER COMMODITY TONNAGE DELIVERY DATE

Nothing new to report.

The OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC — THIS WEEK WITH

SEPTEMBER 10–16, 2001

HOLY CROSS, SEPT. 14

HOPE SPRINGS ETERNAL

Twenty years ago, on September 13, 1981, thousands of runners participated in the first Terry Fox memorial run to raise money for cancer research. The runner Terry Fox inspired the "Marathon of Hope" in hopes of finding a cure for the disease after he lost his leg to bone cancer at the age of 18. When the cancer later spread to his lungs, Fox had to cancel his plans for a run across Canada. Fox died on June 28, 1981, at age 22, but the marathon continues. It had raised over $270 million by September 2000, with over a million people having joined the run. In 1998, the Terry Fox monument was rededicated in Ottawa, Canada, and added to the "Path of Heroes," which recognizes Canada's greatest leaders.

"I believe in miracles. I have to."

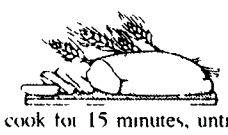
–Terry Fox 1979

TIP OF THE WEEK

Dry lavender, yarrow, and thistle now by hanging them upside down in a cool, dark place.

APPLE BREAD PUDDING

6 ripe apples, firm
1/2 cup water
1 cup raisins (optional)
8 slices buttered bread
1 tablespoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg



Preheat oven to 350°F. Peel and core the apples, then slice thinly. Put them into a saucepan with water and raisins (if desired), then cover and cook for 15 minutes, until soft. Cut bread into fingers and arrange half in a pie dish, butter side down. Cover with apple mixture, then top layer with bread, butter side up. Top with sugar and spices. Bake for 20 minutes, until crisp.

Makes 6 servings

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

Weekly Dairy Market Outlook

Penn State

Aug. 31, 2001

Butter Prices Head Higher

- CME Grade AA butter reaches $2.23/pound.
- Block cheese prices weaken.
- USDA announces August class prices.

Grade AA butter prices at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange jumped from $2.1750 per pound on Monday, Aug. 27 to $2.2250 by Wednesday, Aug. 29. Butter prices remained unchanged on Friday, Aug. 31.

Cash butter prices are $1 above year ago levels. Some industry insiders are expecting Grade AA butter prices will reach $2.50 per pound sometime this fall. Others, however, are expecting prices to ease once milk production rebounds later this fall.

While it is very hard to predict, U.S. butter prices will likely ease sometime this fall. Retail butter prices are now over $3 per pound. The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported that U.S. city average retail prices for July were $3.549 per pound, 31 percent higher than a year ago. USDA also reported this week that butter consumption for January through June of this year was down 3.7 percent relative to the same period a year ago. This was likely due to the higher retail prices.

Another factor to consider is that butter imports have been growing this year, particularly from New Zealand. Milk production will seasonally peak in New Zealand in October-November. Thus even more butter imports will be available to U.S. markets. Butter imports into the U.S. market are attractive whenever domestic butter prices on the West Coast exceed $1.64 per pound. That is based on a high-tier tariff rate of $0.70 per pound, world butter prices of $0.65 per pound, and import costs of about $0.09 per pound. Butter imports reportedly are selling $0.20 per pound below Grade AA domestically produced butter.

Cheese prices at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange were mixed this week. Barrel prices held at $1.68 per pound all week. Block cheese prices, however, declined from $1.78 per pound on Monday to $1.72 per pound Wednesday through Friday. Prices have generally been high for cheese because of reduced milk supplies and lower solids levels this summer. Cheese consumption has been relatively steady the first half of the year.

There are two factors that could cause lower cheese and butter prices the last quarter of the year. First is a return to normal milk production levels. Cow numbers appear to be stabilizing. An increase in productivity this fall because of cooler weather and improved forage could bring on more milk. The other factor is the economy. The real gross domestic product, or GDP, increased at an annual rate of 0.2 percent during the second quarter of 2001. That means the economy is barely growing. Economists are still trying to figure out whether we are in the middle of an economic recession. A slow growing U.S. economy will likely translate into slower sales of dairy products.

USDA reported August 2001 class and component prices. The August federal order class prices with changes from the month before are Class II $15.98 per CWT (+$0.02), Class III $15.55 (+$0.09), and Class IV $15.06 (+$0.25). The product price averages used in computing the class prices were butter $1.9990, nonfat dry milk $0.9473, cheese $1.6693, and dry whey $0.2886.

Average Farm Feed Costs for Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania.

Remember, these are averages, so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

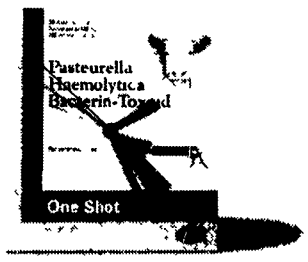
When calves MOVE OUT, don't give PNEUMONIA time to move in.

When calves move out of the hutch, stress gives pneumonia a door to move in. So act fast to protect them, with One Shot®. One Shot is the only Pasteurella vaccine that builds a significant leukotoxin response to the most common cause of bacterial pneumonia within just 7 days[1]. A response that's faster and stronger than Pyramid®4/Presponse®[1]. That means less lung damage[2]. And healthy animals are more productive. Ask your veterinarian or animal health supplier about One Shot or One Shot Ultra™, the only Pasteurella/blackleg combination.



Get ahead of the clock— take your best shot before pneumonia does.

Pasture Perfect®
The Brand of Choice

Highland Pasture Mix gives diversity without compromising quality

Highland Pasture Mixture, one of several Pasture Perfect® mixtures carried by Rohrer Seeds and their dealers, is designed to be a well-balanced general purpose pasture mix. It's great for dairy, beef, or sheep permanent pastures. Tonga and Duo are high energy forages that will produce well into the spring and fall. Bronson and Tekapo are excellent summer producers. Starfire and Jumbo will add quality and help build soil nitrogen fertility.

Since 1919, Rohrer Seeds of Smoketown, PA has been serving farmers and gardeners with a full line of seeds and related supplies "Over these years, many things have changed. One thing that has not changed is the quality of the products we sell," says Earl Rohrer, President of Rohrer Seeds.

Four years ago, Rohrer Seeds was one of the first distributors to carry Ampac Seed Company's Pasture Perfect® forage line. "We know by customer acceptance that Pasture Perfect®" mixes stand tall in providing quality feed," continues Earl. "We are proud to distribute Ampac's complete forage line, and have had many satisfied growers during the past four years."

Weekly Dairy Market Outlook

Butter Prices Head Higher

- CME Grade AA butter reaches $2.23/pound
- Block cheese prices weaken
- USDA announces August class prices

Grade AA butter prices at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange jumped from $2.1750 per pound on Monday, Aug. 27 to $2.2250 by Wednesday, Aug. 29. Butter prices remained unchanged on Friday, Aug. 31.

Cash butter prices are $1 above year ago levels. Some industry insiders are expecting Grade AA butter prices will reach $2.50 per pound sometime this fall. Others, however, are expecting prices to ease once milk production rebounds later this fall.

While it is very hard to predict, U.S. butter prices will likely ease sometime this fall. Retail butter prices are now over $3 per pound. The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported that U.S. city average retail prices for July were $3.549 per pound, 31 percent higher than a year ago. USDA also reported this week that butter consumption for January through June of this year was down 3.7 percent relative to the same period a year ago. This was likely due to the higher retail prices.

Another factor to consider is that butter imports have been growing this year, particularly from New Zealand. Milk production will seasonally peak in New Zealand in October-November. Thus even more butter imports will be available to U.S. markets. Butter imports into the U.S. market are attractive whenever domestic butter prices on the West Coast exceed $1.64 per pound. That is based on a high-tier tariff rate of $0.70 per pound, world butter prices of $0.65 per pound, and import costs of about $0.09 per pound. Butter imports reportedly are selling $0.20 per pound below Grade AA domestically produced butter.

Cheese prices at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange were mixed this week. Barrel prices held at $1.68 per pound all week. Block cheese prices, however, declined from $1.78 per pound on Monday to $1.72 per pound Wednesday through Friday. Prices have generally been high for cheese because of reduced milk supplies and lower solids levels this summer. Cheese consumption has been relatively steady the first half of the year.

There are two factors that could cause lower cheese and butter prices the last quarter of the year. First is a return to normal milk production levels. Cow numbers appear to be stabilizing. An increase in productivity this fall because of cooler weather and improved forage could bring on more milk. The other factor is the economy. The real gross domestic product, or GDP, increased at an annual rate of 0.2 percent during the second quarter of 2001. That means the economy is barely growing. Economists are still trying to figure out whether we are in the middle of an economic recession. A slow growing U.S. economy will likely translate into slower sales of dairy products.

USDA reported August 2001 class and component prices. The August federal order class prices with changes from the month before are Class II $15.98 per CWT (+$0.02), Class III $15.55 (+$0.09), and Class IV $15.06 (+$0.25). The product price averages used in computing the class prices were butter $1.9990, nonfat dry milk $0.9473, cheese $1.6693, and dry whey $0.2886.

Average Farm Feed Costs for Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania.

Remember these are averages, so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

FARM FORUM

Even though I mowed the grass for Max, when we went to eat lunch Josh and Max would talk about cows and farming, I would always listen to what they were saying. I asked him why he sold his cows so many times. Max said, "I sold the cows in 1988, 1992, and 1997. This was so I could get a fresh new start with a younger herd of cows."

I would also like to thank Billie Jo Weller and Patti McLaughlin for all their help and support throughout the year. I know last year I was working on three dairy farms at one time. I want to thank Carl and Brent McMillen, Red Smith, Mike and Jeff Trout, and Logan Bower for understanding why I was late for work or when I had to take off work at the last minute.

Next, I want to thank all the children who participated in my Very Dairy Coloring Contest and all the businesses that donated prizes for the coloring contest. The contest was a success with the help from the local businesses: Dobbs Produce, T and T Bargain Boys, The Blain Hotel, Hall's Ice Cream Dairy, Loysville Country Restaurant, Loysville Farmers Market, Weis Market, and the Perry County Dairy Promotion Board.

Thank you very much to all the people who helped me throughout my year as the Perry County Dairy Princess.

Milk Marketing Board Announces August Class I Price

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Milk Marketing Board (MMB) announced the prices to be paid for Pennsylvania Class I milk (beverage) for August as an average of $19.15 in the western areas of the Commonwealth, and an average of $19.64 in the central and eastern areas of the Commonwealth. However, the price received by an individual dairy farmer will vary as the component composition of a farm's milk differs from the established benchmarks of 3.5 percent butterfat, 2.99 percent protein, and 5.69 percent other solids.

These prices include the current MMB mandated over-order premium of $1.10 per hundred pounds of milk and the fuel adjustment premium of $.25 per hundred pounds of milk.

Since 1988, the MMB has mandated over-order premiums on Class I milk due to adverse conditions affecting the Pennsylvania dairy farmer.

Ridge Administration Announces $4.4 Million In 'Growing Greener' Grants

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) Secretary David E. Hess announced more than $4.4 million in "Growing Greener" grants for farm and streamside restoration projects and 52 watershed specialist positions in 66 county conservation districts.

Secretary Hess; Chris Baugher, president of the Adams County Farm Bureau; Guy Donaldson; Titus Martin, president of the Franklin County Farm Bureau; Susan Fox; Mike Pechart, director of the local government program for the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau; Bill Hoffman, manager for Stone Wood Farms; Luke Brubaker; Joe Musser, Pennsylvania Farm Bureau state board member; Richard Mains; and Lou Sallie, administrator of Pennsylvania Farm Bureau at the recent "Growing Greener" event.

"Through Gov. Ridge's 'Growing Greener' program, we've built unique partnerships with communities, watershed associations, conservation districts and organizations like the Chesapeake Bay Foundation and Ducks Unlimited," Hess said.

"Today I am proud to present $4.4 million in 'Growing Greener' grants to help make sure farmers and communities have the tools they need to improve our watersheds."

The "Growing Greener" grants include:

- More than $1.4 million to 66 county conservation districts to continue supporting 52 county-based watershed specialists.
- $977,628 to the Pennsylvania Association of County Conservation Districts (PACD) to support the Pennsylvania Conservation Reserve Enhancement Program (CREP), an initiative to reduce runoff from farms by preserving streamside farmland.
- $1 million to the Chesapeake Bay Foundation for riparian buffer and wetland restoration in the Chesapeake Bay Watershed.
- $1 million to Ducks Unlimited for the second phase of its statewide water quality initiative "Clean Water Pennsylvania."

Hess announced the grants during a tour of best management practices (BMPs) at Stone Wood Farms in Hamilton Township, Adams County. Hess toured the farm as part of a program developed with the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau to help DEP address environmental challenges on farms. The program, called the Summer Farm Tour, identifies ways for farmers to use their financial resources to fix problems rather than to pay legal fees and penalties.

In the Sept. 15 issue, Lancaster Farming has scheduled the fall 2001 Foraging Around, the quarterly newsletter of the Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council. That issue of Foraging Around is dedicated to the families who strive to make grass-based farming work. Also included will be news and information important to the grazier and forage grower.

FSA Seeks Nominations For Committee Election

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Elections for County Committee membership will be conducted on Dec. 3. FSA is presently seeking nominations for the slate from eligible persons.

One is eligible if he/she is of legal voting age and has an interest in a farm as either an owner, operator, or a partner in a general partnership or member of a joint venture with an interest in a farm. Also, a nominee shall be eligible to participate in any FSA program that is provided for by law, regardless of the status of funding.

The election of responsible agricultural producers is important to all farmers. It is crucial that every eligible producer take part in this election because the county FSA committee is a direct link between the farm community and the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Elections for committee membership are a crucial component of the day-to-day operations of FSA.

The County FSA committees help run FSA farm programs at the local level. Farmers who serve on committees help decide the kind of programs their counties will have and how they will be run. They make FSA agriculture programs fit the needs faced by local producers.

Committees make decisions on commodity price support loans and payments, farmer loans, conservation programs, and farm disaster assistance programs. Also the committee monitors incentive and indemnity programs. FSA committees operate within official regulations designed to carry out federal laws and committee members apply their judgment and knowledge to make local decisions.

The terms of committee members are staggered. Elections this year will be conducted in Local Administrative Area 1. This includes the townships of Conoy, W. Donegal, Mount Joy, E. Donegal, W. Hempfield, Rapho, Penn, Elizabeth, Warwick, E. Hempfield, Manheim, and Manor. Presently, Luke Brubaker, a dairy farmer in the Mount Joy area, serves as your county committee representative.

Nominations will be accepted through Oct. 29. Contact the Lancaster County Farm Service Agency to include your name on the ballot.

To Get Healthier Cows, There's A Lot To Prepare.™

Purina Mills, Inc.

To help dry cows prepare for freshening and the onset of lactation, you need new Purina® Prepare™ Dry Cow Supplement.

Most problems in early lactation begin in the dry period, but properly fed, managed, and conditioned dry cows have less calving trouble, healthier calves, and fewer breeding failures. They can also produce 1000 to 2000 lb more milk. Prepare effectively helps dry cows reach their ideal calving weight and body condition.

There is a lot to Prepare. Ask us about it.

USDA Appoints Pa. FSA Committee Members

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The U.S. Department of Agriculture announced the appointment of the five state committee members for Pennsylvania.

FSA state committees are responsible for the general direction and supervision of state FSA programs. The committee keeps farmers informed of Agency program activities and resolves appeals and complaints. Members maintain cooperative relationships with the agribusiness community.

The Pennsylvania state committee members are as follows:

• Barron Lee Hetherington, chairperson, farms over 500 acres of cropland, including strawberries, sweet corn, tomatoes, wheat, and soybeans;

• George Donald Greig operates a 148-cow dairy farm and raises hay, corn, and soybeans on 900 acres;

• Joyce Hoober Hershey has operated a 100-cow registered Holstein dairy farm where she maintained financial records;

• William Walton Hoover owns and operates a 750-acre cash crop farm raising corn, soybeans, and wheat; and

• Roxana Budd LeVan raises Holstein heifers for dairy replacements and farms wheat, corn, hay, and vegetable crops.

FSA ensures the well-being of American agriculture, the environment and the American public through efficient and equitable administration of farm commodity programs; farm ownership, operating and emergency loans.

USDA Announces Marketing Support For Egg Industry

WASHINGTON, D.C. — USDA has announced its intent to purchase approximately $10 million of fowl meat products for school lunch and other domestic feeding programs.

This purchase will create a much-needed market for light spent fowl meat, which is produced from egg-type laying hens.

Egg producers have been unable to dispose of the layers in sufficient numbers because fowl processors cannot increase normal markets for fowl meat.

The inability to dispose of spent light hens has contributed to an oversupply problem. Therefore, this purchase will assist the egg industry while providing a food commodity that is popular in USDA's child nutrition and other domestic feeding programs.

Although the amount of fowl meat purchased by USDA depends on the quantities offered, prices bid, and recipient requirements, these purchases will help reduce the burdensome levels of laying hens on the farm.

State Grange Selects Two For Youth Ambassador Team

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — If there was any question about what the future holds for the Pennsylvania State Grange, it was answered at the 2001 State Grange Youth Camp with the selection of the State Youth Ambassador Team. Ten young men and women representing Grange Chapters from across Pennsylvania competed for the opportunity to represent the organization in the upcoming year.

"Our youth are the future of this organization, and we are proud to have so many talented young men and women excited about Grange and ready to promote it," said State Master Bill Steel, "With this much enthusiasm in our youth program, our future looks bright."

At the conclusion of the day-long contest, David Sattazahn and Amy Bollinger were selected for the 2002 Youth Ambassador Team.

David is the son of Dennis and Betsy Sattazahn of Womelsdorf, Berks County. Currently, David is a junior at Conrad Weiser High School. As a member of Marion Grange, David holds the office of Assistant Steward. David is also active with the local FFA Chapter and 4-H Club. When asked what he would like to accomplish during his year as youth ambassador, David would like to organize programs for youth of all ages to enjoy.

Completing the Ambassador team for this year is Amy Bollinger of Mertztown, Berks County. Amy is the daughter of Roger and Alice Bollinger. She attends Kutztown University majoring in Art and Chemistry. Amy is active with the Virginville Grange, participating on numerous committees such as Public Relations, County Youth, and Berks Junior County Camp Committee. As a youth ambassador, Amy would like to see the Grange become more visible in their communities, working with other organizations to help meet a common goal.

The Pennsylvania State Grange Youth Ambassadors will travel across Pennsylvania to promote Grange, meet with legislative representatives, visit local, county, and State Grange events, and other promotional activities.

Youth Purebred Swine Enthusiasts Prepare For Harrisburg

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — For the first time ever, the National Junior Swine Association will host a regional show during the Keystone International Livestock Exposition at Harrisburg.

The NJSA Eastern Regional will take place from Oct. 5-7 at the Farm Show Complex.

The Eastern Regional will consist of a purebred gilt show, a showmanship contest, and a skillathon. Points will be awarded to participants in the gilt show, showmanship contest and skillathon.

These points will be contributed to a sweepstakes contest where awards will be given to the top five contestants in each age division. The age divisions are as follows: Novice (8 and under); Junior (9-12); Intermediate (13-16) and Senior (17-21).

All junior gilts must be in place by 10 p.m. on Fri., Oct. 5. Registration and check-in will be held from 5-10 p.m. on Friday. The skillathon will begin at 8 a.m. on Sat., Oct. 6. All skillathon participants must be registered by 10:30 a.m.

The showmanship contest will take place on Saturday at 1 p.m., followed by the purebred gilt show. Kim Brock, Stillwater, Okla., will be evaluating the showmanship contest and gilt show entries.

The sweepstakes awards will be presented on Sun., Oct. 7 at 7:30 a.m., prior to the Keystone International Livestock Exposition barrow show.

Everyone is invited to attend and participate in the NJSA Eastern Regional. Pre-registration is not required for the skillathon, so all interested youth are welcome to come out to the Farm Show Complex and participate in this event.

SILO GASES

Tim Beck
Capitol Region Extension
Dairy Program Coordinator

Drought-stressed crops pose greater risks to animals and their caretakers. One of the additional risk factors of greater importance in a dry year is the possibility of poisonous silo gases forming during the fermentation process. The high nitrate accumulation in the plant causes increased risk to the animal and can be a deadly threat to humans.

Plants wilted by drought or crops ensiled after a drought-breaking rain often have high nitrate levels in the plant stalk. Heavily fertilized fields may have high levels of residual nitrogen that wasn't absorbed and utilized to grow the plant. Following a heavy rain, moisture-starved plants rapidly absorb this nitrogen, and it takes time for plants to metabolize these nitrates into useful plant nutrients. Because this often happens late in the season when harvest will soon occur, producers can unknowingly harvest crops with high nitrates.

Two important recommendations are to avoid harvesting silage crops until several days of sunshine have followed a drought-breaking rain. This gives the plant time to convert the nitrates to useful plant nutrients and lowers the risk for both man and animal. Producers can reduce nitrates by cutting corn plants higher than normal because most of the nitrates concentrate in the lower portion of the stalk. When in doubt as to the risk of high nitrates, have plant samples analyzed for nitrates prior to harvest and adjust management practices appropriately.

Nitrogen dioxide gas is the major toxic material of concern to humans when ensiling crops. The plant respiration and bacterial fermentation that occurs may convert nitrates and nitrites into the yellowish brown gas sometimes observed around the base of silos. Inhaling these gases will burn the lungs and may cause death in only a few minutes.

The greatest danger to humans occurs in the first few days after ensiling, but gases may be formed for two to three weeks or more after ensiling. Be alert for bleach-like odors and/or yellowish fumes around the silo. Avoid spending time around silos for at least three weeks after filling until fermentation is nearly completed and exercise caution when opening silos for the first time. Always work with someone else in clear view so if a rescue becomes necessary you can receive assistance.

Run the forage blower for 15 to 20 minutes before unloading silage to allow any accumulated gases to ventilate from inside the silo. Be especially careful around silo feed rooms. Since this is a heavy gas, fumes often accumulate near the bottom of the silo and unventilated silo rooms can be dangerous places that build up the toxic fumes. Open windows and use fans to ventilate these rooms especially during the initial three-week high-risk period. Tightly seal silo room doors to prevent contamination of the barn.

If circumstances require the producer to enter a silo within 10 days after filling, then a self-contained breathing apparatus is essential. Under such conditions, working with a partner who can maintain visible contact at all times is a must.

Tim Beck

Always remember the risk of fatal silo gas poisoning when silage harvest approaches. Keep alert for possible silo gas accumulation and take precautions to ventilate silo rooms, run the blower, and work in pairs when opening silos.

Silo gas poisoning is just one of the added challenges producers face when dealing with drought-stressed forages. For additional information on these and other topics, request a copy of DAS 99-5 "Drought-Related Issues In Dairy Cattle Nutrition," from your local extension office, or download a copy from the Web at http://www3.das.psu.edu/dcn/catforg/DAS/index.html. For additional information on this or other dairy cattle nutrition topics, contact Tim Beck at (717) 840-7408 or e-mail tbeck@psu.edu.

Corn Silage Whole-Plant Dry Down Rates[a]

Paul Craig, Extension Agronomy Agent

Droughted corn is rapidly losing green coloration in its leaves. Leaf blights are severely impacting late development. Corn is at ½ milk line in the droughted area, and a little more advanced in the well-eared section. Very dry soil moisture conditions continue.

Late planted corn is just beginning to dent. Plants remain very green in coloration. This planting does not have very much height.

Sullivan Celebrates 150 Years Of County Fairs

DAVE LEFEVER
Lancaster Farming Staff

FORKSVILLE (Sullivan Co.) — The 150th Sullivan County Fair was conducted here Aug. 29 to Sept. 3 along the waters of Loyalsock Creek, about a mile from World's End State Park.

About 10,000 people annually pay to attend the fair to take in livestock shows and various other events including pony pulls and live musical entertainment, according to fair secretary and historian Jody Lambert.

Original fairgoers in the mid 1800s attended the festivities by oxen and wagon, Lambert said. The first dairy shows here mainly featured the Milking Shorthorn breed.

The long slate of happenings during this year's fair included a more modern dairy show Aug. 30 that included six breeds of dairy animals.

Out of a group of Ayrshire, Brown Swiss, Dutch Belted, Holstein, Jersey, and Jersey/Holstein crossbred champs, Judge Kenny Young named a 3-year-old Holstein owned by Dan Lambert as supreme champion.

Dan is one of five children of Jody Lambert and her husband William Lambert. The family maintains a herd of about 350 Holsteins on their Dushore farm.

Dairy shows exhibitors came from Bradford and Lycoming counties, as well as Sullivan.

Some of the buildings on the Sullivan Co. Fairgrounds near Forksville are over 100 years old.

Students Learn About Cooperatives At National Conference

MICHELLE RANCK-KUNJAPPU
Lancaster Farming Staff

ATLANTA, Ga. — Recently several hundred students from across the U.S. attended the 73rd National Institute on Cooperative Education (NICE) Conference in Atlanta Ga., July 23.

Pennsylvania and Maryland scholars were sponsored by the their local cooperatives.

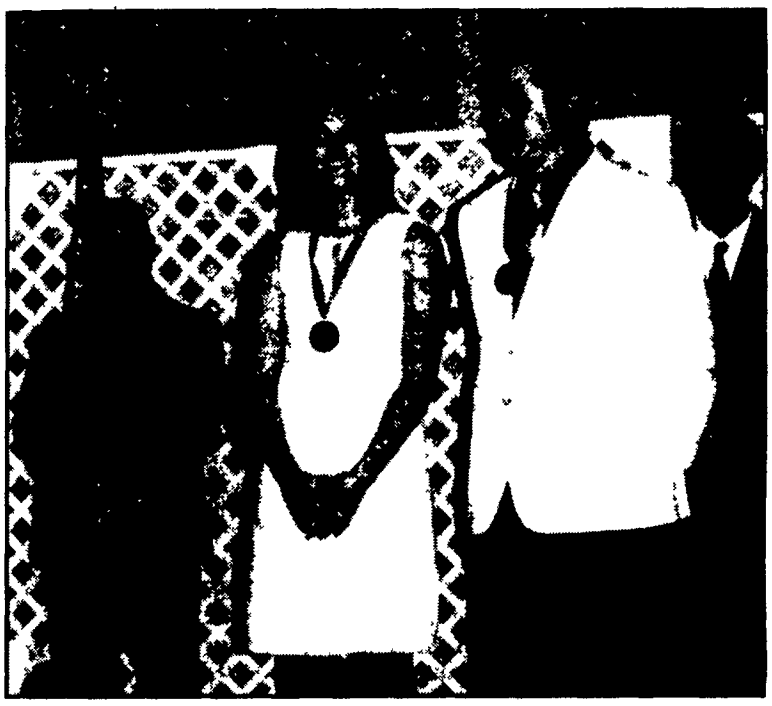
The scholars first participated in the 41st Pennsylvania Council of Cooperatives' 'Summer Business and Leadership Institute' at Shippensburg University in June. The twelve scholars were chosen from a group of 60 students.

Activities included a "marketplace" competition where scholars were in charge of their own store and sold feed and fertilizer. Additionally various guest speakers contributed to the participants' education. This year Jessica Erickson, Harbor Creek, and Andrew Alwine, East Berlin, were Pennsylvania's candidates for the two National Council of Farmer Cooperatives (NCFC) National Youth Ambassador positions. Both were finalists.

They will also attend the NICE conference in 2002 to help lead the program and travel to events during the year to speak on behalf of agriculture and farmer cooperatives.

Erickson, along with Terry Rose of Cambridge, Ohio were selected as NCFC National Youth Ambassadors.

To run for the national candidacy, Erickson participated in several stages of interviews. The first wave, said Erickson, was answering general questions to determine the candidates' poise and speaking ability.



Jessica Erickson, Harbor Creek, was named the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives' National Youth Ambassador, along with Terry Rose of Cambridge, Ohio at a national confernce in Atlanta.

The second stage of interviews "were more intense," she said. "It was in front of a panel of five judges who asked random questions."

Erickson and Rose will attend orientation in Washington, D.C., besides attending meetings in Columbus, Ohio, Louisville, Ky., Orlando, Fla., and Chicago, Ill., to give their thoughts on cooperatives and their personal testimonies about their NICE conference involvement.

Participants attend a one-day institute in Meadville before they are chosen to go on to Shippensburg. Erickson attended the Meadville and Shippensburg sessions one year ago, when she was chosen as an alternate for the trip to the national conference.

Erickson plans on entering the marketing/advertising field. Her family owns a 350-acre vineyard, with the remainder of the total 446 acres in woodland and crops. She heard of the program through word-of-mouth advice and recommendations.

"I'm more well-rounded because of my experience," she said. "I'm more confident with speaking or introducing myself to people. It made made me a lot more outgoing. It also forced me to expand my business wardrobe," she said.

Erickson's family owns a 300-acre grape farm in western Pennsylvania.

Her parents are members of National Grape Cooperative.

This fall, she will be a freshman at Thiel College in Greenville, Pa., where she plans to play on the softball and volleyball teams.

Pennsylvania scholars attending NICE included: Andrew Alwine, East Berlin; Jessica Erickson, Harborcreek; Kristina Eshbach, Conestoga; Gabbriel Frigm, York; Mark Fulton and Craig Schoenberg, Shippensburg; Courtney Miller, New Holland; Bernadette Nace, Newville; Cristin Neil, North East; Jennifer Stover, Mechanicsburg; Dan Harnish, Willow Street; and Jared Zimmerman, Lebanon.

Leaders Bill and Vicki Lantz are teachers from Shippensburg and Big Spring High Schools. They also serve on the Summer Institute planning and staff team.

Additionally, the Maryland Council of Cooperatives holds a week-end institute in March and sent ten scholars to NICE. Maryland scholars to NICE were: Hannah Amos and Andy Bachman, Fallston; Katie Winstead, Centerville; Kim Stafford, Hebron; Amanda Lenhart, Thurmont; Justin Watt, Keymar; David Eaves, Woodsboro; Robert Rynarzewski, Woodbine; and Chris Brosch and David Lechlider, Gaithersburg.

Maryland ambassador candidate David Eaves, of Woodsboro, Md., was a runner up for the Youth Ambassador program. David will be attending NICE next year as a team leader.

Scholars toured CNN Studio Headquarters, Coke Atlanta, and the Jimmy Carter Library and museum while in Atlanta.

Pa. Angus Auxiliary Awards Scholarships

SEVEN VALLEYS (York Co.) — This year the Pennsylvania Angus Auxiliary, which helps to support junior Angus members, has handed out $1,400 in scholarships to recipients who have been active in Junior Angus activities.

Jamie Hower, Bethlehem won a $500 scholarship. Jamie has been active in the Pennsylvania Junior Angus association for seven years. She has served as president, director, and chairperson for the junior's semen auction for three years.

Jamie also participated in the lead conference in 2001. She has been active showing Angus in both 4-H and open shows from the local to the state level. She will attend Northampton Community College in the Veterinary Technician program.

The second place, $250 scholarship went to Jessica Schmidt, Drumore. She served as the Pennsylvania Angus Princess in 1997 and the Pennsylvania Angus Queen in 2000 and has been active in the Junior Angus association for seven years.

A 4-H and FFA member, Schmidt has shown her cattle from the local to national levels.

Jessica received the Bronze and Silver awards from the National Junior Angus program in 2000. She is pursuing an Agricultural Business/Animal Production degree from Penn State.

Jamie Campbell, Pennsylvania Furnace, is the third place, $150 scholarship winner. She is a three-year junir association member. Jamie has been involved in the 4-H beef program for 10 years and served as treasurer and historian of her local beef club.

Jamie also can be found showing her Angus from the local to national level. She is a business major at Penn State.

Bart Gill is male first place, $500 Angus scholarship recipient. Bart has been involved in the Pennsylvania Junior Angus association for four years. He has also been involved in the FFA program for seven years and served as state FFA officer.

He has received his Keystone FFA degree. Bart is majoring in Ag Education at Penn State University.

Anyone wishing to obtain scholarship applications for 2002 should contact Darlene Livingston, PA Auxiliary scholarship chairperson, 2442 Kinsley Lane, Seven Valleys, PA 17360 or e-mail at dmlivin@juno.com.

Polish Agrotourism Farmer 'Was Born With A Dream'

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family Features Editor

POLAND — "I was born with a dream," said Zofia Guzd, owner of an agrotourism farm.

If located in Lancaster County, her home with a minimal amount of land would probably list about $400,000. It is substantially upscale from most of the agrotourism farms we visited.

I am often puzzled by the diversity of living conditions in Poland — mostly small, modest homes, and only a few prosperous looking ones. I'm often asking questions in seeking to understand how so many differences could exist in a country that was ruled by a government that believed in equality, and now 10 years later could have a few that are so prosperous.

Language barriers hinder our communication, but as best as I can understand, several explanations are possible.

During the years of food shortages, farmers prospered. Food was needed and often sold at black market prices, enabling farmers to stash away money so that their family had money when the communist reign ended.

Another reason is that farmers are encouraged to expand and are given loans at reduced rates in order to develop additional income-producing businesses. Many farmers are hesitant to change from traditional methods, but a few are convinced that it is the only way farms will survive.

Certainly another reason would need to be the hard-working perseverance of people such as the Guzds.

Work Ethic, Optimism

If there is one thing that the outwardly-prospering Polish people possess, it is their work ethic and firm belief that the best is yet to come for their country.

The inside of the Guzd homes appears to have been designed by a top architect and decorated by an interior designer.

But, Zofia said, "We are not rich. I drew the plans and decorated it myself. My husband and I built this house. It took us 10 years and we are still working on it."

Both she and her husband have full-time jobs off the farm and spend long nights working on the house.

When asked how she accomplished so much without the training, she said, "I was born with a dream to have a house like this."

She explained that she designed the house after those that were typical of Polish homes owned by landowners before World War II.

The Soviet Union confiscated the homes that were not destroyed by the Nazis and bombed after the war.

Zofia said that the Soviets made Polish people move out of their nice homes and turned them into schools and sometimes just destroyed them. They seemed to have no respect and appreciation for things, and many of the fine homes were completely destroyed or fell into great disrepair.

Zofia designed her home to look like the homes from that era. They used carved wooden doors and decorative woodwork rescued from dilapidated buildings. It was built on land inherited from her parents. Like many of the agrotourist homes, the Guzds developed a unique sideline to attract visitors to their farm.

They built three large ponds stocked with fish. They offer fishing, boating, and hunting opportunities to guests in addition to three meals daily and the peaceful surroundings. They have room for six to eight persons to stay and more rooms to finish.

"We only finish as we have money," Zofia said. A house tour lent some credence to her statement. In her own bedroom, she sleeps on the floor because she needs to wait for more finances.

In conversation among team members, we agreed that few Americans would be willing to sacrifice living in an old finished house for 10 years. The majority of houses in Poland seem to be in an unfinished condition from outside appearances. Our tour guide explained that mortgages vary, but mostly are 20-25 percent.

Remodeling

People cannot afford those rates. Instead they remodel, as materials are available at affordable prices. That explains why many different and seemly incohesive materials are often used on one house. The Guzd home was so different because everything coordinated in style and colors.

The government realizes that the average farmer cannot earn enough income to live by farming less than 10 acres. To encourage farmers to increase their earning potential, the government offers tax benefits to agrotourism farms.

To qualify for an agrotourism farm, the size must be one or more hectares, which translates into two and a half acres. The farm must be located in a rural area, not within city limits. The rooms must be rented from the house in which the farm family lives. Income earned from renting out rooms is not taxed. If owners build additional cottages on the ground, the income from them will be taxed.

The rooms per night that compare favorably to bed and breakfasts in Pennsylvania, costing from $10-$25. That sounds like a bargain to Americans, but is unaffordable for many Polish. Some printed literature states that the average income in Poland is $4,000.

Anne Luken, a nutritionist on our team, enjoys figuring out percentages. She said that compared with the average American's income of $30,000, percentagewise, the room would cost us $700 a night.

A Bakery

Another farm we visited started a bakery as a side business. Krystyna and Marian Tenderendy grow mainly wheat and barley on their farm.

They have the wheat ground at a local mill and from it make rolls, bread, and cakes. At first he and his wife worked 12 hours at night, six days a week, to bake

Taco Bell Partnership Moves More Steak

DENVER, Colo. — Promotions for Taco Bell's "New Grilled Steak Taco" have been so successful that the restaurant chain has doubled its sale of beef products this year.

Taco Bell sold 12.3 million pounds of steak products in 2000 and by July 2001 had already sold more than 12.5 million pounds of the new Grilled Steak Taco product. The program is being coordinated on behalf of the Cattlemen's Beef Board and state beef councils by the National Cattlemen's Beef Association.

In the initial promotion in February 2001, Taco Bell introduced the new menu item at approximately 7,000 restaurants nationwide. The four-week promotion sold more than two million pounds of beef in the first two weeks and included only a modest checkoff investment. The product, made with marinated steak strips, is now a permanent menu item at Taco Bell.

Because of its popularity, a new round of promotion was launched for July and August, extending beef's national advertising presence by six weeks.

During the second round, Taco Bell sold 28,835,920 Grilled Steak Tacos.

This equals 2,703,368 pounds of steak — for tacos only. Including other menu items, more than three million pounds of steak were sold in the six weeks. Half of these sales were in combination meals featuring two Grilled Steak Tacos with a drink.

These "combo" meals were the most successful in recent Taco Bell history. Grilled Steak Taco sales continue to hold strong, even slightly increasing. Sales have been so robust that selected markets have chosen to extend promotional efforts beyond the six weeks initially planned.

the bread and spent most of the day delivering it.

Within 10 years, business has boomed and enabled them to increase their farm size to 50 hectors (about 125 acres). They purchased the most modern bakery equipment available, according to Krystyna. They employ 16 persons, with two employees working full-time in farming.

They bake 2,000 loaves daily in addition to other items (10,000 during the Christmas season). The bakery owners deliver their products to about 60 shops in neighboring towns.

Although we were not inside the Tenderendy home, it was evident that they lived higher class than most. Krystyna wore brand name blue jeans and shirt, not common among the middle-aged Polish men that we saw.

Despite the bakery's success, the owners said, business is difficult because of competition. Other bakeries, they said, try to undersell them, but that is because they don't pay their workers well.

Competition is something that is new to the Polish in recent years. Under communist rule, all branches of the economy were controlled by the state. In 1991 the Warsaw Stock Exchange was officially reopened — 52 years after it had been closed down in 1939.

Many see the political change as a chance for great opportunity, but some are frightened by so many changes in such a short time and the uncertainly of the future.

Cartwright Wins Broiler Award

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Dr. A. Lee Cartwright of Texas A&M University, has been awarded the Poultry Science Association's Broiler Research Award sponsored by the National Chicken Council."Dr. Cartwright has done fundamental work in chicken physiology, particularly in the area of fat content in the live animal," said Dr. James E. Marion, technical adviser to NCC.The annual award consists of a plaque and a cash prize of $2,500.

Dr. Cartwright is an associate professor and extension specialist at Texas A&M. Previously, he was research leader at the U.S. Department of Agricultural's Agricultural Research Service laboratory in Georgetown, Del.

Bay Program Announces Watershed Grants

WASHINGTON, D.C. — At a Bayside ceremony, EPA Administrator Christine Todd Whitman last week announced more than $1.5 million in Chesapeake Bay Program Small Watershed Grants to 59 community-led organizations and local governments from across the Bay watershed.

The Chesapeake Bay Small Watershed Grants Program supports communities in developing and implementing watershed management plans and encourages innovative, local programs that improve water quality and restore important habitats within the Chesapeake Bay basin. By promoting community-based stewardship of local lands, the program provides citizens a greater understanding of the relationship between the condition of their local watersheds and the health of the Bay.

"The Small Watershed Grants Program puts funds in the hands of those who know their part of the Bay watershed best," Whitman said. "By providing funds directly to local groups, these grants have the ability to rally a community around the restoration of their part of the Bay watershed."

Pennsylvania organizations receiving grants included:

- The Watershed Alliance of Adams County, Gettysburg - $35,000 for a Municipal Comprehensive Watershed Management Plan;
- Alliance for the Chesapeake Bay, Harrisburg - $35,000 for Conservation Landscaping for a New Development;
- Octoraro Watershed Association, Lancaster and Chester counties - $50,000 Farmland and Education Initiative;
- SEDA - Council of Governments, Lewisburg - $35,000 for the Susquehanna Greenway Partnership Plan;
- Muncy Creek Watershed Association Inc., Muncy - $4,000 for Engaging Our Watershed Community plan;
- Codorus Chapter of Trout Unlimited, Spring Grove - $6,000 for the Upper Codorus Creek Watershed Conservation Plan; and
- Wysox Creek Watershed Association, Wysox Township - $30,000 for Wysox Creek Restoration Project Plan .
- Proposed projects are reviewed by the National Fish and Wildlife Foundation and are selected based on set criteria paralleling commitments set forth in Chesapeake 2000, signed by Bay Program partners last June. The agreement calls on Bay states and the District of Columbia to combine efforts with watershed organizations to restore local water quality.

ARS Testing New Tanning Process, Fecal Detection System

WYNDMOOR (Philadelphia Co.) — Improving a technique to remove hair from cattle hides immediately after slaughter spells good news for tanneries, has the potential to reduce bacterial contamination of meat, and is friendlier to the environment than conventional methods.

Animals enter the slaughterhouse with many microorganisms on their hides.

A method developed more than 10 years ago by former Agricultural Research Service researcher David G. Bailey removes hairs from the hides of cattle before they are skinned, significantly reducing the threat of meat contamination.

The process has a projected high cost of waste treatment.

Recent improvements, developed by researchers at the ARS Eastern Regional Research Center, Wyndmoor, in collaboration with Future Beef Operations, LLC, a start-up beef-processing company, permit recycling of the sulfide, recovery of the removed hair and an overall reduction in the impact of the process on the environment.

This patented method starts with spraying a solution of sodium sulfide onto the carcass hide. The substance breaks protein bonds within hair fibers so they can be removed. A sulfide-neutralizing agent is then applied to complete the process.

The process allows the packer to remove the bulk of the hair, split the hide and send the top (grain) layer for tanning and the rest (corium) for other uses.

It also permits early-stage inspection of the hide's grain layer, reducing shipments of low-quality hides to tanners.

This technology will be utilized by FBO in its first Kansas meatpacking facility, opening this month.

Fecal Detection Technology Advances

Dangerous bacteria such as E. coli O157:H7 are being spotlighted because Agricultural Research Service researchers in partnership with eMerge Interactive, Inc., of Sebastian, Fla., have further developed and tested commercial designs of a fecal detection system capable of scanning an entire beef carcass.

In a recent trial of an eMerge prototype at the Food and Agricultural Products Research and Technology Center at Oklahoma State University, the detection system revealed trace levels of contamination that were invisible to the human eye.

The prototype was also successful in evaluating fecal decontamination on carcasses subjected to levels of high-temperature steam from steam vacuums or steam cabinets.Research and development engineers at eMerge have developed this technology into new prototypes that scan an entire side of beef for fecal contamination.USDA's Food Safety and Inspection Service has a zero-tolerance standard for visible fecal contamination on livestock and poultry carcasses. Visual inspection and carcass cleaning are the standard tools for reducing the potential for E. coli and other bacterial contaminants.

New Farm Equipment Lighting Law To Take Effect In Ohio Oct. 1

THORNVILLE, Ohio - New farm equipment lighting requirements will take effect in Ohio Oct. 1.

Farmers who have multi-wheeled tractors are being required to display new lighting for traveling at night on streets or highways. In addition, all 2002 and later farm equipment are required to meet lighting and marking standards when operated on a road or highway.

The new law, passed last May, also requires that all farm equipment traveling on streets or highways display lighting from sunrise to sunset or in unfavorable weather conditions where visibility is limited to 1,000 feet. This is a change from the previous rule that required equipment to display lighting from a half-hour after sunset to a half-hour before sunrise. This change in the law takes effect immediately.

"There are a lot of people driving on rural roads that have very little contact with farm machinery," said Ohio State University Extension agent Jeff McCutcheon. "They are unable to pick out what they are seeing ahead of them, especially at night. Most farm equipment is wider than the road and the tires are black and people can't see those at night. It's a safety precaution."

McCutcheon discussed the new law at the Tri-County Agronomy Field Day Sept. 6 at the Roger Kilbarger Farm in Thornville. McCutcheon also demonstrated where the new lights should be positioned on a farmer's tractor.

A multi-wheeled tractor is one that is designed for drawing other vehicles or machinery and has two or more wheels on each rear axle. To meet the new requirements, the rear extremities of the tractor must be marked with a flashing amber light that is visible from the front and rear of the tractor. The light should be positioned 16 inches from the wheel, be between 3.3 and 12 feet above the ground, and flash 60 to 85 times per minute. In addition, the rear of the tractor must have an amber reflector that is visible from the front and a red reflector that is visible from the back.

Farmers who retrofit existing tractors with the new lighting equipment are eligible for an income tax credit of 50 percent of the cost. The cost, however, cannot exceed $1,000 ,and the tax credit is only valid if the materials are purchased and installed by Oct. 1.

The bill is available online at http://ohioacts.avv.com/. The details of the law are found in Section 4513.111 of the Ohio Revised Code.

In addition to farm equipment lighting demonstrations, the program will include discussions on the potato leafhopper, late-season corn stresses, the new farm bill, and managing fertilizer or chemical spills on the farm or the highway; and a complimentary pork chop dinner.

The OSU Extension offices, Soil and Water Conservation Districts and Natural Resources Conservation Services of Licking, Fairfield and Perry counties sponsored the field day.

Dates Announced For Fall 2001 Pa. Graded Feeder Cattle Sales

HARRISBURG, (Dauphin Co.) — The following dates have been released for the Fall Pennsylvania Graded Feeder Cattle Sales. These dates have been selected so area producers can plan ahead to market their feeder cattle. Interested buyers should plan on attending these sales to fill their needs.

Cattle will be sold in uniform lots according to USDA grade, weight, sex and breed or color. Some sales will not accept cattle with dairy breeding, yearlings, bulls or cattle with horns. Cattle that have been dehorned should be healed. Castrated males should be healed and guaranteed against stags. Personnel from the Livestock Division of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Market Development will grade the cattle for frame size and muscle thickness, using USDA Feeder Cattle grading standards.

The federal government introduced the program in 1966 to provide extra education to children, ages 3-22, of migrant workers. Workers must move from one school district to another with the intention of seeking agriculture-related work, and the children must move with the worker. The work must be the principle livelihood, according to Biblioni.

The program is nationwide but administered locally.

An instructor aids students during an after-school program.

Making A Difference

"It really makes a big difference to students to have someone on their side, encouraging and watching them, to let them know they can succeed," said Carranza.

Carranza spends half of her time on the job recruiting new families. This means going to talk to farmers or industry representatives to explain the program and obtaining names of families that are possibly eligible, said Carranza. She may also visit families directly or perhaps get referrals or families needing assistance from teachers.

"We are here as a benefit to agribusiness employers, the employees, and their families," said Carranza. "We simply want to help the people get a good education."

Once the student is deemed eligible, he or she is assigned a "student support specialist" who will go to the school and monitor the student's academic and behavioral performance.

If they deem it necessary, they will refer the student to an after-school program that the migrant education program operates. The support specialists may not take the children out of classes.

Support specialists Damaris Martin and Gisela Lebron make sure the students are getting sufficient English as a Second Language (ESL) teaching or coordinate after-school programs. They may also, if the teacher requests, tutor the children, however not on a regular basis or during school hours. Every support specialist is in charge of 100-150 students in the four schools that they each oversee.

They may also attend meetings with counselor or special education instructors, or may work as translators between parents and teachers during meetings.

Support specialists also conduct two educational workshops per year to educate parents on various topics. Additionally, program workers also connect families to various aid organizations for housing, food, bills, or clothing needs.

The program, however, is not about handouts. "Everyone in the program works. That's the requisite to get into the program, that they work in agriculture," said Carranza.

"They're a really industrious people. The kids do well in school," she said, citing the upper-level leadership and mentorship programs for older students in the migrant education program.

The program stresses "lots of parental involvement," said Biblioni. "We train parents how to be better parents and more involved in school activities. They learn what schools expect from their kids and what they should expect from the schools."

Carranza's work in includes aiding students who have dropped out of school get their GED, learn English, and learn skills needed in adulthood.

Students "may need to learn how to read and write, or do simple math skills," she said.

Reading and science topics are the focus of the summer school program.

Services Offered

Saturday programs offer a three-hour time block to work with the children, said Henry Dixon, ESL specialist.

A recent computer program run on Saturdays, said Dixon, offered students an interesting way to learn English. An elementary-school-level pilot program, conducted the last three months of the school year, taught children to read.

For more supplemental help, a six-week summer school helps students stay on course with current school standards to move onto the next grade level.

An in-home instructional program, conducted by teachers who tutor the children once a week for an hour, reaches students who cannot attend the filled-to-capacity summer program.

Last year a tour of colleges and trade schools in the area introduced the students to post-secondary education "so they could gather admission and financial aid information, and see how to pick a major," said Carranza.

Program workers will help parents complete applications for children's health insurance or college financial aid, or help parents and student familiarize themselves with the educational system in their new school district.

For more information call (800)-234-8848 or contact Jenny Carranza, recruiter, (717) 871-2260.

Consider These Questions

Aug. 14, both companies sent shareholders a 100-page plus document outlining the details of the merger. The joint proxy statement provides information for shareholders to use in deciding whether or not they approve the merger.

The rules for cooperatives are different, primarily since they are not publicly traded. Like the investors who own shares in publicly traded companies, farmers as cooperative members are also investors. They have invested their time and money into their cooperative and want that business to be successful in the marketplace.

Here are some questions to think about:

- Why merge? How will the merger benefit the cooperative? This is probably the most important question. Is the cooperative in financial trouble? Or, is the board looking into the future and taking decisive action to protect members? A cooperative that is successful now may not be in the near future. As a result, some boards may elect to merge from a position of strength. Will the merger result in greater savings and/or earnings? Will it result in greater market power for the combined cooperatives? If the merger is based in part on realizing reduced operating costs, how much savings are to be expected? Suiza Foods and Dean Foods estimated their merger would save the combined company $120 million by the end of the third year.
- How will the merger benefit members? More specifically, what will members get from this merger? If transportation costs are lowered, how much of this will be used to improve the operations of the cooperative and how much will be passed back to members? It is normal for individual members to look at the cooperative and ask, "what are they doing for me?" Board members and management, however, must have a different perspective. They look at the cooperative from the perspective of all involved, including members, customers and employees, and therefore have a broader view. Individual members must take this into consideration.
- What will my equity requirement be in the new cooperative? Dairy producers looking at a possible merger need to understand whether their equity requirements will change under the new cooperative. Cooperatives, like publicly traded companies, need capital to operate. Members provide most of the capital for their cooperative. And, every cooperative has a different equity requirement. In the case of a merger, members may need to contribute more equity, less equity (and possibly receive a check), or face no change once they become members of the new cooperative.
- How will any patronage dividends be distributed in the new cooperative? Cooperatives attempt to realize a profit by the end of the year. Some years they make money, some years they don't. Once profits are realized, the board decides what portion of earnings to retain in the cooperative, and what portion to distribute back to members. The portion returned to members is called the patronage dividend. Members may receive part of the dividend in the form of cash (usually 20-100 percent). The balance is treated as an additional equity investment in the cooperative. If your cooperative requires members to reach a certain dollar equity investment level, the board may require members to contribute some funds each month from their milk check (a deduction called capital retains) until they reach that goal. In addition, the board may require members to contribute a portion of their patronage dividend each year. Again, not every cooperative requires the same level of equity investment and distributes patronage dividends the same way.
- Who will run the new coop? How will the new board of directors be structured? How will governance rules change? The members elect a board to reflect their views. The board in turn hires the management to run the day-to-day operations of the cooperative. In both cases, the objective is to make the business as successful as possible.
- Who has the final approval for the decision to merge? Dairy producers entrust their elected delegates and board members to make many decisions on their behalf. Dairy producers must have faith and trust in their board members. The question to ask in the case of the proposed merger is, who has the ultimate decision? Is it individual members, or the board?
- What is the timetable for this decision? Dairy producers need a certain amount of time to objectively analyze the proposal of the management and board, to ask good questions, and then vote.
- Do the cultures mesh? This should not be underestimated. The new cooperative may have a different feel to it. Cooperatives each have their own personalities. As a cooperative member, ask whether your ideals and values are similar to that of the other parties to the proposed merger. But remember, while the new cooperative culture may be different, that may not necessarily be bad.
- Finally, what are the implications of not merging?

In closing, dairy producers should be focused on making their farms successful in the business world. That also means making their cooperative successful in a rapidly changing market. Dairy producers should come to the fall informational

Penn State Plans Transition Cow Workshops

YORK (York Co.) — Capitol region dairy producers are encouraged to attend transition cow workshops planned in the fall.

The first workshop is Oct. 5 at Smyser's Richlawn Farm, 2691 East Berlin Road, York. The workshop is scheduled from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. A second workshop is planned for Nov. 15 in Cumberland County. Advance registration is requested for both sessions.

The workshop will focus on skills and methods for detecting problem cows before and after calving. Participants will learn how to quickly recognize when a cow is becoming sick, and to perform a basic examination of the animal. Without proper management, transition cows can be a major cause of lost production and profit on dairy farms. If the people working with cows can quickly identify problem animals, then the speed and effectiveness of treatment will be greatly increased.

Participants will learn to observe a group of cows from a distance and detect those that might have a problem. They will be taught how to recognize common symptoms and which cows are most likely to have particular diseases. The participants will then examine cows and practice picking out individuals that might be showing signs of trouble.

The morning program will feature information on transition cow nutrition and management issues and will highlight special considerations for transition cows. A sample transition cow management protocol will be presented to provide participants with ideas on how to set up a management strategy for their own operations in consultation with their veterinarian.

Participants will learn a systematic method for body condition scoring to help them identify thin or over-conditioned cows most likely to have transition cow metabolic problems.

Fees for the workshop to cover materials and lunch are $40/participant. Register in advance by calling the York County extension office at (717) 840-7408, fax your registration to (717) 755-9657.

Farmer Cooperatives Present Proposals To Strengthen New Farm Bill

WASHINGTON, D.C. — With American agriculture facing a number of challenges, the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives (NCFC) has called for action in support of policies and programs that encourage cooperative self-help efforts among farmers, providing a long-term strategy to improve their economic well-being and profitability.

"The farmer's share of the consumer food dollar has declined to just 20 cents-its lowest level ever," David Graves, president and CEO of the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives (NCFC), recently testified before the Senate Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition and Forestry, Aug. 2. "Increasing the farmer's share by just one cent to 21 cents would generate an additional $6 billion in gross income from the marketplace. The challenge, of course, is how."

"The answer," Graves said, "involves providing farmers with greater opportunity to join together in cooperative self-help efforts." He outlined two main areas where public policy and related programs should be focused to achieve these objectives:

• Improving access to capital by modernizing and strengthening the U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Business and Industry Loan Guarantee Program. Eliminating the current $25 million maximum loan guarantee and removing obstacles to farmer cooperatives qualifying for the program are just two provisions NCFC requested. The changes would better enable farmer cooperatives to modernize and expand, meet costly environmental and regulatory requirements, and take advantage of new value-added business opportunities for the benefit of their farmer-owners.

Also, Graves voiced support for establishing an equity capital fund to help further attract capital and promote investment in rural America. Access to capital is one of the critical problems for farmer cooperatives who generally rely on their farmer members for capital; these are the same people who have been operating in a weak agriculture economy.

Revitalizing USDA research, education and technical assistance programs, by re-establishing a separate agency within USDA to encourage and support farmer cooperatives, providing specific funding for both the agency and related programs in support of farmer cooperatives, and strengthening the Value-Added Technical Assistance Grants program with not less than $50 million annually in funding.

Pennsylvanians Urged To Look For Egg Safety Label

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Department of Agriculture Secretary Sam Hayes kicked off National Food Safety Education Month by reminding Pennsylvanians to look for the safety label when purchasing eggs.

"The Pennsylvania Egg Quality Assurance Program is one example of what Pennsylvania does to encourage food safety and to protect our residents from foodborne illness," Hayes said. "The voluntary program, intended to minimize contamination of chicken eggs, was launched in 1994 as the nation's first egg safety program. Agriculture and health officials from all over the world call us for assistance in implementing similar programs."

Pennsylvania Egg Quality Assurance Program requirements are a more stringent farm-to-table system than federal rules being implemented this month. Federal rules require safe handling instruction labels, along with egg storage and display at 45-degrees Fahrenheit or lower at retail establishments.

To display the Pennsylvania Egg Quality Assurance label on their shell eggs, producers also must meet requirements for egg testing, chick monitoring and testing, manure sampling and culturing, farm biosecurity, employee and package sanitation, record-keeping, refrigeration, and other criteria.

The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture encourages consumers to practice these egg safety tips:

• Buy eggs with the Pennsylvania Egg Quality Assurance Program symbol.

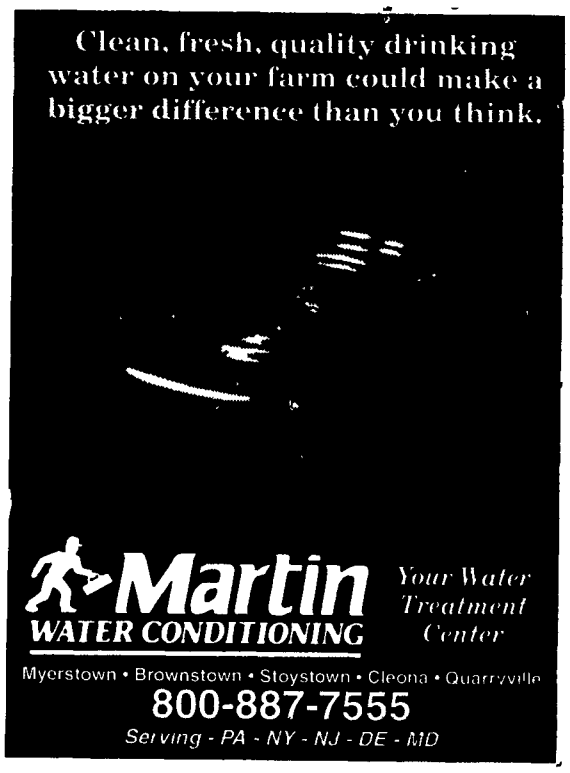
• Keep eggs refrigerated.

• Refrigerate cooked eggs and foods that contain eggs.

• Don't undercook eggs (whites and yolks should not be runny).

• Wash hands thoroughly after handling raw foods including eggs.

National Food Safety Education Month, held during September, was originally launched by the restaurant and food industry to recognize the work of those who actively promote safe food products and the safe handling of food.



Clean, fresh, quality drinking water on your farm could make a bigger difference than you think.

PMMB Grants Emergency Hearing

$.25 fuel compensation.

PMMB spokesperson Tracey Jackson said the emergency hearing is set for Oct. 3 at 8:30 a.m.

According to Dairylea board member and Altoona dairy farmer Raymond Diebold, the $1.40 premium is "in the ballpark compared to premiums paid for milk in surrounding areas."

Fluid milk supplied by Pennsylvania dealers to out of state markets, such as those in New Jersey, is typically receiving premiums of $1.40 or higher, Diebold said.

Consider These Questions

meetings and consider the following. First, come with an open mind and be a good listener. Second, have faith in your board members and management. Remember, you entrusted these people with a part of your business. Third, check your emotions at the door. Good decisions can only be made in a calm and reasoned environment. Then, once you get all the facts and ask good questions, make your decision.

NEED EMERGENCY FEED?

As a Cover crop, Green Spirit Italian Ryegrass blend from Barenburg has yielded more and higher quality forage than Rye and Triticale, in trials in PA and MD

GREEN SPIRIT has higher quality than rye, triticale or wheat if cut before boot stage. Is actually a better feed than alfalfa. Has more digestible fiber and sugars. Does not head out until approximately May 12.

Tired of the way rye heads out and loses its quality so fast in spring? Would you like to have a rye that becomes denser and leafier after cutting/grazing instead of becoming stemmy? Try Green Spirit Italian Ryegrass blend, from King's AgriSeeds.

Also works great no-tilled into Alfalfa fields in fall for very high quality balage or hay next spring. Does not head out till approx. two weeks later than orchardgrass with much higher quality.

Can also be mixed with our Jersey forage oats, rye or triticale, etc. 1 BU to 25 lbs. Green Spirit. Under ideal conditions Ryegrass can be grazed in 6 or 8 weeks.

Thanks and Congratulations to the Chester Soltys family

Milton, Northumberland Co, PA

The Soltys family is pictured in front of the 62x19 Slurrystore® structure they erected on the site of earthen bank manure storage that was in place when they purchased the farm. Of the several reasons the Soltyses list for purchasing a Slurrystore, the most important to them were safety and the peace of mind that comes from knowing they have a secure manure storage system.

'TIS THE SEASONING FOR

Great Flavor Fast

To soak or not to soak? For time-pressed grilling enthusiasts looking to jazz up mealtime, there is no question. Marinating is a quick and easy, no-fuss technique for infusing your favorite foods with mouthwatering flavor And, if you are like many Americans, you might be surprised to learn that you may have the ideal, one-step marinade in your refrigerator—Wish-Bone® salad dressing. With these salad dressings, there really is no easier way to create delicious, tasty meals in just minutes.

As a marinade, Wish-Bone salad dressings bring a wonderful balance of ingredients together—oil to carry the flavor, vinegar to add tang and garlic, onions and herbs for extra seasoning—to impart delicious taste to just about any food including chicken, fish, beef, pork and vegetables.

The salad dressings come in myriad varieties to satisfy nearly every taste preference, but some great choices for marinating include Italian, Robusto Italian and Oriental salad dressings and Balsamic, Roasted Garlic and Red Wine vinaigrettes. For those with a passion for orange or grapefruit, try Hellmann's® or Best Foods® Citrus Splash Use the clip-and-save chart as a guide to get you started.

More adventurous flavor-seekers also can use the salad dressings as a flavor base to create their own signature recipes. The salad dressings marry beautifully with a wide variety of flavorful ingredients like salsa, soy sauce or lime juice. For tips to get your creative juices flowing, log onto www wish-bone.com

As a general rule, soaking for 30 minutes is ample time for flavor infusion. Here, favorite dishes such as classic fajitas or vegetable sandwiches receive a flavor makeover with just a few minutes of easy preparation. And by basting with fresh marinade while grilling, you can get an even quicker shortcut to the extra-tasty flavor your family will love.

Grilled Fajitas

4 servings

- 1 cup robusto Italian or Italian dressing
- 1 tbsp. fresh lime juice
- 2 tbsp. finely chopped fresh cilantro
- 1 tbsp. grated lime peel
- 1 lb. boneless beef top round sirloin steak or boneless skinless chicken breasts, cut in 1-inch cubes
- 1 large red or green bell pepper, cut in large chunks
- 2 medium red or yellow onions, quartered
- Flour tortillas, heated if desired
- Fajita Fixin's*

For marinade, blend Robusto Italian Dressing, lime juice, cilantro and lime peel. In large, shallow non-aluminum baking dish or plastic bag, pour 3/4 cup marinade over steak, red pepper and onions; turn to coat. Cover, or close bag, and marinate in refrigerator, turning occasionally, 3 to 24 hours.

Refrigerate remaining unused marinade.

Remove steak and vegetables from marinade, discarding marinade prior to grilling.

On skewers, alternately thread steak and vegetables. Grill or broil, turning and brushing occasionally with refrigerated marinade, until steak is desired doneness and vegetables are tender. To serve, fold tortilla around skewer and gently pull steak and vegetables off skewer into tortilla. Garnish with Fajita Fixin's*

Fajita Fixin's: Use shredded cheese, shredded lettuce, sour cream, guacamole and/or chopped tomatoes.

Grilled Mediterranean Sandwiches

4 servings

- 3/4 cup balsamic vinaigrette or roasted garlic vinaigrette dressing
- 1 small eggplant, cut in 1/2-inch slices
- 1 large red bell pepper, quartered
- 1 small zucchini, cut in 1/2-inch-lengthwise strips
- 1 medium red onion, cut in 1/2-inch-thick round slices
- 8 thick slices Italian or peasant-style bread
- 1/4 lb. fresh mozzarella cheese, sliced
- Arugula or leaf lettuce for garnish (optional)

In large, shallow non-aluminum baking dish, pour Balsamic Vinaigrette Dressing over eggplant, red pepper, zucchini and red onion; turn to coat. Cover and marinate in refrigerator 15 to 30 minutes.

Remove vegetables from marinade, reserving marinade. Grill or broil vegetables, turning and basting frequently with reserved marinade, until vegetables are tender. Meanwhile, brush one side of each bread slice with reserved marinade, then grill or broil until lightly toasted.

To serve, evenly divide vegetables and mozzarella on bread to make 4 sandwiches. Garnish, if desired, with arugula or leaf lettuce.

Grilled Seafood Salad

4 servings

- 1 cup (8 oz.) citrus splash orange vinaigrette or oriental orange dressing
- 3 tbsp. finely chopped fresh cilantro
- 1 lb. uncooked large shrimp, peeled and deveined, and/or scallops
- 1 large bunch arugula or baby spinach leaves (about 8 cups)
- 1 medium carrot, shredded
- 1/2 cup grape tomatoes or cherry tomatoes, halved
- 1/3 cup thinly sliced red onion
- 1/2 cup thinly sliced jícama (optional)
- Radishes, thinly sliced, for garnish (optional)

For marinade, combine Orange Vinaigrette Dressing and cilantro; set aside.

On skewers, thread shrimp. In large, shallow non-aluminum baking dish, pour 1/2 cup marinade over shrimp; turn to coat. Cover and marinate in refrigerator 30 minutes, turning once.

Refrigerate remaining unused marinade.

Remove shrimp from marinade, discarding marinade prior to grilling. Grill or broil shrimp until shrimp turn pink. Meanwhile, on platter, arrange arugula, then top with carrots, tomatoes, red onion and jícama. Top with shrimp and drizzle with remaining refrigerated marinade. Garnish, if desired, with thinly sliced radishes.

PERFECT MARINATING MATCHES

Your At-A-Glance Guide to Tasty Marinating Solutions

FOOD GROUP	MARINADE TO MATCH	MARINATING TIME	TIP
Vegetables (try thickly sliced eggplant zucchini, yellow squash, large mushrooms, bell peppers or onion)	Wish-Bone Italian, Robusto Italian or Just 2 Good Italian Dressing	15 minutes to 1 hour	Place salad dressing in a self closing plastic bag for easy marinating and cleanup!
Boneless, Skinless Chicken Breasts	Wish-Bone Oriental, Balsamic Vinaigrette, Olive Oil Vinaigrette or Just 2 Good Italian Dressing	Up to 3 hours	Add brown sugar to Oriental salad dressing for great caramelized flavor
Delicate Fish Fish Fillets White Fish	Wish-Bone Red Wine Vinaigrette or Just 2 Good Italian Dressing	15 minutes	Add dill, garlic or capers to the marinade
Less Tender Beef Steaks Top Round Flank Chuck	Wish-Bone Italian, Robusto Italian or Just 2 Good Italian Dressing	3 to 24 hours*	Adding fresh ginger to the marinade reduces minimum marinating time by 2 hours!

*For convenience, put marinated foods in the fridge before you go to bed (if cooking next day) or before work (if cooking that day)

Ida's Notebook

by

Ida Risser

September has always been a busy month for us here on the farm. The fourth cutting of alfalfa must be put in the silo and the fence always needs repair to keep the heifers in the meadow.

There is no end to work to be done on a farm. It is harvest time and the tomatoes, cucumbers, and sweet corn must be preserved for winter use, too.

Our one small peach tree has given us 12 baskets of peaches. So, everyday for a week, we've canned or frozen peaches as they ripen. My three hills of cucumbers are bearing again after we got a little rain. The pole limas on a permanent fence are doing fine and I have picked them several times.

As if all those peaches weren't enough, we have an apple tree that is loaded down with fruit. Most of it will be wasted as it is high on the tree. But everyday we make more applesauce and freeze it for this winter.

We put a box trap in the garden to trap the rabbits that were chewing off the stringless green beans. Then we released them in a far corner of the farm. Well, someone stole our trap. I guess they thought it was cruel to catch them. We wonder what they did with the big box trap.

My sister, who lives in Michigan, recently visited Lancaster County for her 50th high school reunion. Then she and my sisters got together for lunch. One of my sisters is not well and that made this a special gathering. As we get older, we seem to appreciate these gatherings more.

As I am expecting guests for a picnic tonight, I had better start on preparations for the meal. I think that I'll prepare the regular menu for a picnic, but I had better have plenty as I'm expecting some big eaters.

Contest Awards Cash To Chicken Eaters

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Restaurant patrons who order chicken can enter the first annual Chicken-in-September Contest for a chance to win the top prize of $5,000, or five runner-up prizes of $1,000 each.

In honor of National Chicken Month, the National Chicken Council (NCC) and U.S. Poultry & Egg Association (U.S. Poultry) will conduct a random drawing of receipts sent in by people who ordered chicken in any type of restaurant or foodservice establishment. The item must be purchased between Sept. 1 and Sept. 30.

No purchase is necessary; entries may also be made by submitting on a four-inch by six-inch postcard the name of a favorite chicken menu item from a restaurant.

To enter the Chicken-in-September Contest, mail in a receipt from any U.S. restaurant showing a chicken product purchased at a foodservice establishment during the month of September, or a postcard naming a favorite restaurant chicken product, with customer's name, address and telephone number and the name of the restaurant and location, by Oct. 15.

Mailing address for entries is: Chicken-in-September Contest, P.O. Box 28158, Washington, D.C. 20038-8158.

Penn State Offers Compost Classes

COLLEGEVILLE (Montgomery Co.) — This is the season when the leaves and dead stems from your veggie and flower gardens pile up.

It you're throwing this debris out with the trash, you're wasting the opportunity to improve your garden health.Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection (Pa. DEP) and Penn State Cooperative Extension are again teaming up to offer composting workshops and free backyard composting bins to Pennsylvanians.

Each person who preregisters for and attends a workshop will receive a free composting bin, as long as supplies last. This season's compost classes will be Thursday, Sept. 27, 7 p.m. at Limerick Township; Monday, Oct. 8, 7 p.m. at Greater Plymouth Community Center; and Wednesday, Oct. 10, at Franconia Township.

Registration forms are available at the host sites, or by calling the County Extension Service at (610) 489-4315. Fax in your registration at (610) 489-9277. Please supply your name, mailing address and phone number. Registrations will be accepted until the class is full.

On Being a Farm Wife

(and other hazards)

Joyce Bupp

No fair.

What a disappointment folks would have were this historic, annual tradition to disappear from the annual scene of community events.

No barns full of cattle, barbered, brushed, and bathed within an inch of their squeaky-clean hides. No spiffily-sheared sheep, curly wood all cleaned and coifed, standing with each foot placed just so, while a judge eyeballs the lineup for champion contenders.

No arenas full of pigs seeming to run about aimlessly, occasionally two tangling in a turf squabbling, squealing, and biting. No embarrassed exhibitors trying to separate their porcine wanna' be battlers while the judge sidles off to another corner of the arena to size up some better behaved showring hams.

No fair. Imagine.

No petting zoos where little kiddies can snuggle little kitties, hug wiggling puppies, make an eye-level acquaintance with a rooster, or get up-close-and-personal with a goat. No tractor driving contests or sales of livestock champions or nervous rookie exhibitors taking discreet parental encouragement from the sidelines.

No rows and rows of lovingly-prepared preserves. No jars of carefully hand-packed pickles, or specially selected cherries, or perfectly placed peaches fixed with painstaking preparation in hopes of a blue ribbon award. No tables groaning under pounds of proud gardeners' best picks: jewel-red tomatoes, straight, snappy string beans, eggplants garbed in shiny royal purple coats, apples polished until they gleam, pecks of peppers plucked for critique.

No Great Pumpkin contestants, where the biggest of the big are brought to compete against other giant, orange picks o'the patch in a competition which sets every little kid's heart looking ahead to trick-or-treat night.

No fair? What a letdown that would be for those who wait eagerly every year for that special several-day run.

No dazzling midways, with whirling, twirling lights and rides designed to make your knees about half-weak just from watching their spinning, spiraling, speeding journeys. No game comeons calling you to throw basketballs or lob baseballs or toss hoops or squirt waterguns or pitch little rubber balls onto bingo-like game boards. No prizes of goldfish or stuffed alligators or furry monkeys or whatever the fluffy, favorite prize of the season happens to be.

No munching one's way from entrance to exit. No corn-dogs-on-a-stick, no elephant ears, no oversized soft pretzels, no tantalizing-aroma onion/pepper/sausage sandwiches, no waffles and ice cream, no greasy hot French fries or buttery baked potatoes or cheesesteaks. No fresh-squeezed orange juice or saltwater taffy or barbecued chicken...better move on, my mouth's watering.

No cotton candy stuck in little kids' hair. No ice cream cones accidentally dropped onto hot, dirty pavement. No candy apples accidentally getting shoved into the back of your best white sweater. No parents who get lost from big-eyed, frightened children to be reunited by kindly folks at the Red Cross, security guards or firefighter friends waiting in case of — heaven forbid — potential emergencies.

No fair?

Not to worry. Because the popularity of fairs just continues to grow and most communities, big and small, have one of some sort. They celebrate the harvest season of food and fiber, salute the coming of fall, and run through the efforts of hordes of dedicated volunteers who get fair spirit in their blood and return, year after year, to make them happen.

No fair near you?

Well, our own, historic York Fair is running right now. Come! We'd love to share it with you.

Fair enough?

Well Preserved

The Well Preserved news column is prepared by Lancaster County Cooperative Extension. It includes food preservation information and questions received in the office.

Can It Safe

We have received many questions recently about how processing methods relate to food safety. This column addresses concerns that have been addressed by food preservers.

A jar of my home canned food has obvious signs of spoilage within the jar. Are the rest of the jars of that product safe to eat?

If proper procedures were used in canning the food, the single spoiled jar probably was the result of a jar lid failure that allowed spoilage organisms to enter the jar.What causes food to spoil?

The most common cause of food spoilage is the growth of bacteria, molds, or yeasts that are naturally occurring microscopic organisms. Because these microorganisms are so widely distributed in soil, water, and air, it is normal to find many types on the surfaces of fresh foods. Heating food kills the vegetative cells but not the spores. Proper canning procedures including cleanliness and processing control the growth of these microorganisms.

Sometimes a lid on a jar comes out of the canner with a buckle. What causes this?

Lids buckle because the screw bands are turned too tightly before processing. The rings need to be tight enough to keep water from entering the jar but loose enough to allow heated, expanded air to escape between the sealant and jar top. If it is too tight, the air is trapped and it pushes the lid up from inside making it impossible for the lid to seal as it cools because it is misshaped. If you have this problem, try tightening the rings as tight as you can using only your fingertips and then drop your hand down onto the lid and give it another quarter turn only.

Can I add meat to my home canned spaghetti sauce (or vegetable soup)?

Only use meat in sauces and soups when you are processing the jars in a pressure canner. Because of the low acidity level, processing times and pounds pressure will be greater than for plain tomato based sauces.

Can starch or flour be added to a recipe to thicken the sauce before the food is canned?

No, this will change the rate of heat penetration into the product and may result in undercooking. Add thickeners for gravy when you are ready to serve the food.

Can I add other ingredients to the salsa or pickle mix that I bought?

No, always follow the directions on the mix exactly. Changing an ingredient may dilute or lower the acidity level changing the processing time or method. This is also true for using other canning recipes. The exceptions to the rule of never change anything in a canning recipe are you can change the salt level in anything except pickles, you can change the sugar level in syrup used for canned fruit, you can add extra vinegar or lemon juice, you can decrease any vegetable except tomatoes in salsas, and you can substitute bell peppers, long green peppers or jalapeno peppers for each other in salsa recipes as long as you do not increase the total amount.

Is it safe to remove screw bands from jars after processing?

Yes, they should be removed, washed thoroughly and dried. Leaving bands on the jars results in their rusting onto the jar and causing the seal to release.If you have food preservation questions, a home economist is available to answer questions on Wednesdays 9 a.m. - 1 p.m. Call (717) 394-6851 or write Penn State Cooperative Extension, Lancaster County, 1383 Arcadia Rd., Rm. 1, Lancaster, PA 17601.

START YOUR BRAIN WITH BREAKFAST!

Count the number of hours from your evening meal, or when you finished your evening snack until you eat again the next day. How about for your children?

We've all heard that breakfast is the most important meal of the day, and that we need to break the fast with breakfast, but do you really know why?

Those eating three meals a day versus two, are more likely to get the 40+ nutrients our bodies need every day, but that's not the only reason. The average person fasts 14 hours between their evening meal and breakfast, and for those who skip breakfast their body will fast for up to 18 hours. Our body's fuel of choice is glucose from carbohydrate rich foods, but we don't keep a large supply on reserve. Breakfast refuels our bodies with the energy we need and can improve problem solving, short-term memory, concentration, our ability to focus, alertness, attention span, and energy levels. Not eating breakfast can cause people to be more irritable, disinterested, and unable to concentrate.

Our body engages in an automatic "triage" response, just as medics on a battlefield decide how and where to use limited resources. Without breakfast, the body must decide how to use the inadequate amount of energy it receives. First your body supports critical organ function such as breathing and the beating of the heart. Second (especially in children) it supports growth, height, and weight gain. Finally the body allocates energy for interaction with the environment.

It does not make sense to head off to work or to send kids to school without breakfast. We would be setting ourselves up for a mediocre work day and for them to lose out on the educational experience. Also, breakfast eliminates short-term hunger symptoms such as headache, fatigue, sleepiness, and restlessness.

As kids are heading back to school, the benefits of breakfast include higher performance on standardized tests, better school attendance, and improved health and athletic performance. Without breakfast your child's body may be at school but his or her mind is elsewhere.

No time for breakfast? Make time! Breakfast-eating parents lead to breakfast, eating kids. Why? Because parents are role models for their children. Make a plan — before bed you can set the table, put out the cereal, bagels, and bread.

Mornings are hectic. If you're still a breakfast-skipper, grab a granola bar, fruit, juice, or a carton of milk to take on the go. Some people claim that they just are not hungry. It is important to work on instilling new habits. Choose something, because your body needs food to run on.

Once you are eating breakfast, make good choices. Good breakfast-eating habits provide good nutrition for today and good eating habits for a lifetime. Good choices include cereal with fruit and milk; toast or a bagel with jelly, peanut butter, or cheese; fruit-filled breakfast bars; yogurt; toasted waffles topped with fruit and yogurt; or a fruit smoothie. A balanced and healthful breakfast can include two servings from the breads, cereal, rice, and pasta group, and one serving from both the fruit group and the milk, yogurt, and cheese group.

Dieters and people who skip breakfast tend to overeat at other meals throughout the day, and make less healthy choices because they are "starving." Try eating a whole-grain cereal with little added sugar (the more sugar, the more calories). Use low-fat dairy products. Whole-grain toast or an English muffin with spreadable fruit are much lower in calories than a donut or a sweet roll.

Breakfast feeds the brain as well as the body. Do it for your kids, and for yourself.

Direct-Marketing Strategies At Field Day

BLOOMSBURG (Columbia Co.) — Join Forks Farm and PASA for the farmer-to-farmer educational event of the season, "Direct Marketing in Rural Areas" — Wednesday, Sept. 12 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in Orangeville.

Field Day event hosts John and Todd Hopkins, owners of Forks Farm, will present their very successful 130-acre, grass-based livestock operation with a special focus on their direct marketing strategies. The Hopkinses graze about 50 to 60 head of beef cattle, about 1,600 pastured chickens and turkeys, and 12-20 hogs each year.

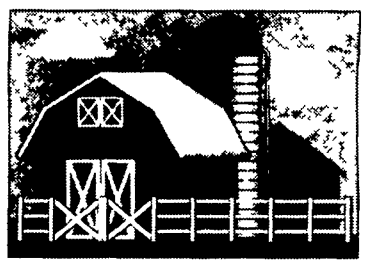
John and Todd Hopkins will discuss how they have built a strong and loyal customer base in rural Columbia County and in the region. The Hopkinses believe that diversity is the strength of their farm. They will share their experiences, lessons learned, and tricks of the direct marketing trade.

Joel Salatin is a guest speaker. Salatin is one of the pioneers of both direct marketing and grass-based livestock production. He comes from Polyface, a family farm. Polyface is 550 acres, producing grass-fed beef, pastured broilers, pastured eggs, "bigaerator" pork, pastured rabbits, and vegetables. Developer of the primary model used for pastured poultry production, Salatin is the author of four books, "Pastured Poultry Profits," "Salad Bar Beef," "You Can Farm," and his latest book, "Family Friendly Farming." He is well-known for his direct, dynamic, and lively speaking style and the wealth of knowledge he has accumulated. Salatin is a speaker you don't want to miss.

To register, call Kate Francis at PASA at (814) 349-9856, ext. 2. There is no cost to attend. Lunch will be available for purchase ($10).

11th Annual Hinkelfest Set

FREDERICKSBURG (Lebanon Co.) — The 11th annual Hinkelfest will be conducted Sept. 14, 15, and 16, just off Rt. 22 west of Fredericksburg, at the Farmer's Pride Airport. The Hinkelfest is a chicken and egg festival that benefits local community organizations including the Fredericksburg Fire Company, Library, Community Association, Lion's Club, and American Legion.



Since 1991, over $150,000 has been raised for these community services as families enjoy Hinkelfest's Eggs n' Wings n' Chicken Things. Admission and parking are free, as well as the entertainment that is sure to keep your foot tapping.

Poland: Land Of Opportunity

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family Features Editor

PULTUSK, Poland — "Recent Poland has become what we have dreamed," the mayor of Pultusk said with obvious pride.

Pultusk is considered the cultural center of Poland. Most of the population is made up of college professionals and their mayor, who welcomed us, look to be 30 something.

We remarked that the street market fascinated us. He seemed embarrassed, and said that although the city rents the space to the people, he thinks it makes the city look like an army camp. He would like to stop the practice and have an inside market.

Flowers and produce lend color to this street market stand.

Items crafted from honey and honey products at the market are offered for sale.

Mostly farmwives seem to be in charge of their own little space along the streets. The produce in most cases was artfully arranged and appeared to be top quality. That is not surprising since we are served many fruits and vegetables in delightful combinations and always the finest quality.

We visited several thriving businesses in this area. One was the Oligocen Company, which produces 2,000 varieties of bottled drinks such as mineral water, juices, and wines.

It is considered one of the most profitable businesses in Poland and exports its products to several European countries. "We formerly exported to Russia but we had problems with payments and no longer export to them," the owner said.

But not everyone believes the new democracy is an easier way to do business.

"Business was easier under the Central Planned Economy (some call it Communist era) because we didn't have as much competition. Now we must compete with other countries," the shoe factory owner said despite a large increase in sales since 1997.

I was surprised to hear that it was possible to start a business during Communist rule. Some say it was quite difficult because businesses paid the taxes for all people, the non-business person did not pay taxes. The rate varied without warning and often forced private businesses to close.

The shoe company was formed 14 years ago with three partners. They started small and now are the biggest producer of shoe soles in Poland and export to several countries. Even the Italians, who are world leaders in shoe manufacturing order soles from Poland. The Polish company uses Italian equipment and fabrics and demonstrated how the soles are formed.

Many of the young people expressed enthusiasm for the opportunities that have opened up for them in recent years.

One of those is the availability of private colleges. We visited the School of Humanities, which started in 1994 with 2,500 students and has grown to 16,000 students.

The school offers a variety of subjects, and one student said his reason for choosing a private school over a public university is to receive better English training. Annual tuition is $1,000. Parents will sacrifice greatly to see children attend.

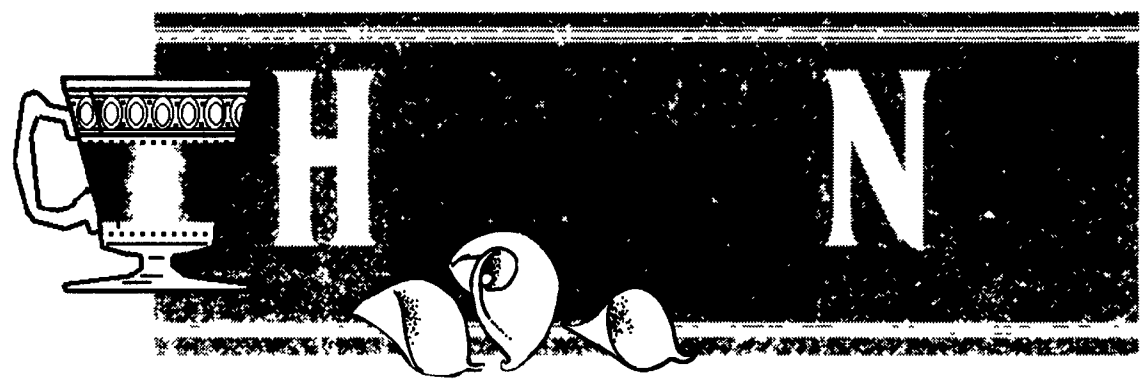
"It is the best level and lowest tuition in Poland," the school's president said.

The city has 20 percent unemployment, high by U.S. standards but better than Poland had been for many years. The topic is addressed often by officials and one that they are working to change.

With freedom comes the privilege to find fault with the government. The mayor said that many letters are published in the paper complaining about many different things, some impossible to change. For example, they complain that road repairs take too long despite the government's efforts. His comment reminds me of Lancaster County. There, too, many of us complain about the constant inconvenience of road repairs.

"It is our goal to have an ecological safe city," the mayor said. "We have one of the cleanest rivers in Poland." This has been achieved after much effort.

The mayor of Pultusk welcomes the group from America.



Which Debt First?

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — You are 27-years-old and have a 30-year loan on a townhouse with seven percent interest, for which you paid $75,000 and three years later, owe $73,000. Your only other debt is a six-year new car loan for $23,770. You just got a raise and now have an extra $400. You currently have money going into retirement and investments.

When there's some extra money at the end of the month, which debt should be paid off first?

According to Gary Foreman, editor of The Dollar Stretcher (www.stretcher.com), there's probably no one right answer. With this type of question you can always come up with some unlikely situation that would favor one answer over another. Let's look at the possibilities that are most likely to occur.

First, the mortgage. With a 30-year, seven percent mortgage, you will be paying off between $60 and $70 in principal each month. As time goes on, the interest payment drops and the amount applied to principal increases a little. With 27 years to go on the mortgage, you won't have a mortgage-burning party until 2028. And, you would have paid over $105,000 in interest over the whole life of the loan. So you will make $180,000 in payments to pay for your $75,000 townhouse.

What happens if you put that $400 each month towards the mortgage? You will have the mortgage paid off much sooner. In fact, it will only take 10 years to have your home free and clear. And you'll reduce your interest expense to only $28,000; a significant difference.

Next, let's look at the car loan. With a six-year loan, payments should be about $475 each month. Of that, about $225 is going to principal now. And, just like the home mortgage, each month a little more of your payment goes to reduce the loan balance.

If you don't prepay the loan, you will pay a total of $10,000 in interest. So the car will actually cost you a little less than $34,000. Add $400 to each car payment and you will have the loan paid off in less than three years and reduce the amount of interest paid to $4,400.

So which is the better deal? Under most common circumstances, you'll come out ahead by paying off the loan with the highest interest rate first. Let's create a test to see what your debts will look like in two years under each strategy.

Begin with a scenario where you don't prepay anything. In two years, you'll still owe $17,730 on the car and $73,910 on your home, a total of $91,640 in debt.

Now, let's suppose you used the $400 each month to prepay the mortgage. In that case, two years from now you still owe $17,730 on the car. But your mortgage balance would be reduced to $63,638. So the total owed would be $81,368.

What if you apply the extra $400 to your car note? You'd still owe $73,910 on your home, but the auto loan would show a balance of $6,877, for a total debt of $80,787.

So, you're $581 ahead by putting the extra money on the car loan. The longer you do that, the bigger the difference.

Another advantage to paying off the car loan first is if you don't prepay it, you will almost certainly be "upside down" in the car for years to come. If you needed to sell it, you'd have to pay to get someone to take over your payments.

One warning for anyone making principal repayments: Make sure that any prepayment is applied to principal. Some lenders have a nasty tendency of applying extra money to your next month's payment, which will drastically reduce the effectiveness of any prepayment.

A final comment: this same process can be used for credit card debts. Barring really unusual circumstances, it's always best to pay off the highest-interest debt first.

Pa. Dairy Princess Pageant Sept. 22

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania Dairy Princess and Promotion Services, Inc. has announced that its 45th annual Dairy Princess Pageant will be Saturday evening, Sept. 22, here at the Four Points Sheraton.

A milk punch reception will start at 5:30 p.m. followed by a banquet at 6:30 p.m. The coronation will begin at 8 p.m.

Thirty-one county dairy princesses will compete for the title of Pennsylvania Dairy Princess held by Melinda Wolfe of Sun Area. The newly selected princess and alternates will reign for a period of one year from September 2001 to September 2002. During that time, they will represent the dairy farmers of Pennsylvania speaking on behalf of Pennsylvania's number one agricultural industry — the dairy industry and its products.

The pageant, on Saturday evening preceding the annual All-American Dairy Week, will end two full days of activities and interviews for the contestants. Four judges, all from out of state, will select seven finalists from the 31 princesses and then select the new Pennsylvania Dairy Princess and two alternates.

The Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Program is supported by Pennsylvania dairy farmers through their various advertising and promotion agencies: The Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program/American Dairy Association Mid-East, American Dairy Association/Dairy Council — Middle Atlantic, American Dairy Association/Dairy Council, Inc., and Allied Milk Producers and with contributions from other dairy related organizations and individuals. Again this year, as a result of a grant from Select Sire Power, Inc. and several anonymous individuals, the awards to the winners will be $1,200 to the Pennsylvania Dairy Princess and $600 to each of the two alternate dairy princesses.

In addition, two contestants will receive $100 awards for outstanding dairy presentations designed for school children, and best speeches designed for adult audiences. There will also be two $50 awards for compiling scrapbooks, which chronicle the dairy princess activities to date. The contestants themselves will select the coveted "Miss Congeniality" award from among their own ranks.

For more than 45 years, the primary purpose of the dairy princess program in Pennsylvania is promotion of the dairy industry and its products on the local level and furthering consumers' understanding of the importance of agriculture to our state's economy. Incentive awards will again be given to those counties whose last year's princess and her committee has completed the incentive requirements.

In addition, an individual award of $300 will be given to the young woman who stood out as the outstanding dairy promoter during her county reign. This award, entitled the "Tina Shultz Memorial Award," is given in memory and honor of the outstanding young lady who in May 1986 succumbed to cancer, during her reign as Huntingdon County Dairy Princess.

Pennsylvania Dairy Princess and Promotion Services, Inc. announces that the Saturday morning presentation competition will be open to the public free of charge. It will run from 8 a.m. until noon in the Sheraton Ballroom. All interested persons are invited and urged to attend.

Tickets for the event are $22 per person and are available on a "first-come" basis from Pennsylvania Dairy Princess and Promotion Services, Inc., 214 South St., Clarion, PA 16214, (814) 226-7470 or fax (814) 226-8698. All tickets must be paid for in advance and can be picked up at the door.

Calling All 4-H Alumni

MONTOURSVILLE (Lycoming Co.) — More than 45 million people in the U.S. are 4-H alumni. As 4-H approaches its national centennial, the organization hopes to reestablish contact with members and volunteers from years gone by.

"We have been touched by the stories of people who had 4-H experiences that altered the course of their lives," said Marilyn Corbin, assistant director of cooperative extension and state program leader for children, youth and families. "While we have been able to keep in touch with many alumni, we know there are countless others with whom we've lost contact. I think they would be pleased and proud to see what 4-H is doing in our communities now, and their insights could benefit today's youth."

During the Pennsylvania Farm Show in Harrisburg, during January 2002, 4-H will recognize the oldest 4-H alumni in the state. The organization is asking for help to locate 4-H alumni.

If you or someone you know has ever participated in 4-H, the organization wants to share information with you on the upcoming centennial, which will be celebrated throughout 2002. Contact your county extension office to identify 4-H alumni or find out more about the 4-H centennial events.

In Lycoming County, contact Ev Simmons at Penn State Cooperative Extension of Lycoming County, 542 County Farm Road, Suite 206, Montoursville, PA 17754, at (570) 433-3040 or (570) 329-4040, or e-mail Lycoming-Ext@psu.edu.

Smokin' In The West: American Angus Cook-Off

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — The competition was cooking at the 18th annual All-American Certified Angus Beef Cook-Off. The event was conducted July 10 during the 2001 National Junior Angus Show in Denver, Colo., with 38 teams participating.

Top honors were awarded to teams of adults and three youth age divisions in two categories, showmanship and recipe. The teams competed in either the fresh meat or Quick-N-Easy™ divisions. This was the second year for the time-saving Quick-N-Easy™ products.

Here are some of the recipes.

Steak Supreme
Michigan Junior
Angus Association
First Place Fresh Meat Recipe
Junior Division

4 New York strip steaks
Crushed garlic
¼ cup soft butter
2 tablespoons crumbled blue cheese
2 teaspoons green onion
½ teaspoon fresh lemon juice
Salt and pepper to taste

Mix together all the above listed ingredients except for the crushed garlic, chill.

Rub steaks with crushed garlic.

Grill steaks to desired doneness.

Top steaks with 1 tablespoon of chilled mixture.

Enjoy. Serve with baked potato and tossed salad.

Serves 4.

Steak Ore House
Montana Junior
Angus Association
First Place Fresh Meat Recipe
Intermediate Division

9-ounce filet mignon
Smoked bacon
2-3 ounces crabmeat
3-4 ounces sauteed mushrooms
1-ounce Bearnaise sauce

Wrap slice of bacon around perimeter of steak and secure with toothpicks. Grill filets over hot mesquite coals until desired doneness. Meat is best cooked hot and fast. Warm crabmeat and saute mushrooms while meat is cooking. To serve, top steaks with crabmeat, surround with mushrooms and apply a good scoop of Bearnaise sauce over the works.

Whole Beef
Tenderloin Marinade
Missouri Angus Association
First Place Fresh Meat Recipe
Adult Division

8-ounce Worcestershire sauce
4 tablespoons hoisin sauce
1 teaspoon garlic powder
½ pound butter
½ cup olive oil
4 tablespoons fresh rosemary
White and black pepper to taste

Mix marinade ingredients and spread on roast (6 pounds whole beef tenderloin). Cook to medium rare doneness. Serves 8-10.

Flavored Milk 'At The Pump'

PHILADELPHIA — As Sheetz convenience store customers fuel their cars during these hot summer weeks, they will be enticed to refuel themselves with refreshing, flavored milk.

Sheetz, Galliker's Dairy and the American Dairy Association/Dairy Council Middle Atlantic have partnered to promote single-serve flavored milk at the gasoline pumps this summer through their "Milk's Gone Looney Tunes" promotion.

Customers fueling their cars at Sheetz convenience stores will be met with colorful mini-billboards promoting the popular, single-serve Looney Tunes™ flavored milk. The billboards, known as gas pump topper extenders, are displayed above the gas pumps at 200 Sheetz locations in Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia. They feature Bugs Bunny, a 12-ounce Looney Tunes™ flavored milk and the logo for Galliker's Dairy, which processes the Looney Tunes™ brand.

Lou Ann In Poland

Poland Thrives With Agrotourism

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family Features Editor

MODLISZEWICE, Poland — Excitement permeates the faces of young people and those who have businesses. During my first four days in Poland, we visited many farms and attended conferences with the Agriculture Advisory Centers in two districts.

Although there are thousands of farms throughout Poland — 80 percent are farmers — their farms average about 10 acres and some are only two or three acres. It is necessary for them to find other sources of income. One of the most successful is agrotourism.

In a few years time it had grown to include a hundred farms. The actual number is 1,500. Europeans receive two months vacation time. It is common for guests to stay for three weeks in the agrotourism farms.

We visited several of these and found out they are capitalizing on different interests. One farm, called an ecological farm, had an interesting story. The woman said that a tradition in Poland is that the farm goes to the youngest son so she and her husband inherited the farm.

"We were not very glad. We couldn't see big opportunity, but we wanted the dream of our parents to come true," Mrs. Barwicka said of the reason she and her husband took over the farm.

Their farm is in a beautiful mountainous area but the soil is rated very poor for farming. For this reason, they decided to raise ducks, but within a year the farm was bankrupt. One of the main problems was that they had no water supply.

The Barwickas persevered and dug trenches to hook up to public water and used composting to improve their soil. In 1993, they became certified in what they call ecological (organic) farming. In 1994 they opened their home to visitors for additional farm income. They advertised as a place that served good, healthy meals and offered a vegetarian menu option.

The tourist farm offered a method to market organic products to guests. Their idea was so successful that today Mrs. Barwicka is preserving 10,000 jars of such items as sour cabbage, pickles, jams, and a health food drink for which she received a state award.

We sampled the drink made of red beets, vinegar, and who knows what else. It tasted a bit like fermented beet juice. We also sampled wonderful-tasting drink made from elderberry flowers, geranium tea, and Polish cookies.

The operation has become so successful that the family has added a delightful sunroom and built two new cottages on their property. They can sleep 14 people a time. It is rustic and surrounded by breathtaking mountain ranges. They have a few cows, chickens, ducks, etc. Most of their guests are from the Netherlands, Russia, and Poland.

Another agrotourism farm does not offer overnight lodgings. Instead they charge a fee for visitors to come see their 90 ostriches and small petting zoo. It was almost dark when we arrived, and visitors continued to come.Mr. Kedzierski is extremely enthusiastic about ostriches.

He raises breeding stock and said that one female lays 60-80 eggs. He averages 30 babies from one bird. Ostriches live to be about 70 years old. He sells three-year-old birds for about $1,200. Eggs that are not fertile are decorated and sold for profit.

We also had a camp fire at an agrotourism farm. The delightful hostess was very personable and gave us a tour of her home that included only one guest room. Most of her guests say for three weeks. Generally she serves a large noon meal as is traditional for most homes. When on vacation or holiday as they call it, guests prefer to sleep later and have a large noon meal.

Mr. Longin Kedzierski raises 90 ostriches for breeding purposes.

Another farm offered ceramic classes and sold ceramics made with red clay. This operation shows the diversity and uniqueness of the owners.

The ODR (similar to extension services) works closely with farms to help them find ways to become profitable. The ODR publish full-color books and descriptions of each agrotourist home and published it in many different languages and also distribute it in many countries.

The ODR has their own printing press and prepares many colorful brochures and booklets that appear more professional with graphics and layout than we do. I understand that Poland has long been lauded for its outstand ing graphics. They have much national pride in presenting professionalism.

ODR staff seem to really care about the small farmers and try to help each one find a way to become successful. Some other options will be explored in other articles.

Kaleidoscope Children's Exhibit Coming To Lancaster

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Kaleidoscope, a magical place where children are encouraged to stretch their imaginations and express their own personal creativity, is coming to Lancaster.

Created and funded by Hallmark, Kaleidoscope is a unique program that has nurtured the creativity of four million children since 1969. Kaleidoscope is coming to Lancaster Sept. 10-26 under the local co-sponsorship of the Junior League of Lancaster, Inc. Just look for the playful, purple pavilion located in the parking lot of the Landis Valley Museum at 2451 Kissel Hill Road, Lancaster.

During its stay, children explore and create inside an imaginative world that unfolds from two colorful trucks. Puzzles, star glasses, and airplanes are just some of the fun projects the children choose from. Kids can take a starry journey into a cosmic outer space adventure and make some extraterrestrial art, and step inside Kaleidoscope's "aquajungle" to create even more fun art from mountains of magical Hallmark material.

"Kaleidoscope is a place for children to have fun being creative," said Jan Hile Rea, Kaleidoscope program coordinator. "Our goal is to give each child a sense of creative accomplishment."

Weekday sessions are reserved for school groups, kindergarten through sixth grade. On Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 15-16 and 22-23, Kaleidoscope will be open to all ages from noon to 4 p.m., and it's free. Dads, moms, grandparents, aunts, uncles and friends will be invited to enjoy creating alongside their children during these weekend Family Creation Celebrations.

"I would encourage all parents to make plans now to have their children visit Kaleidoscope," said Beth Staman, Kaleidoscope chairman for the Junior League. "It's a wonderful creative experience and it's available to our community absolutely free, thanks to Hallmark and to the Junior League who was responsible for staffing the event with volunteers." The Junior League is an organization of women committed to improving the community through voluntarism.

Ag Secretary Promotes Ride Safety

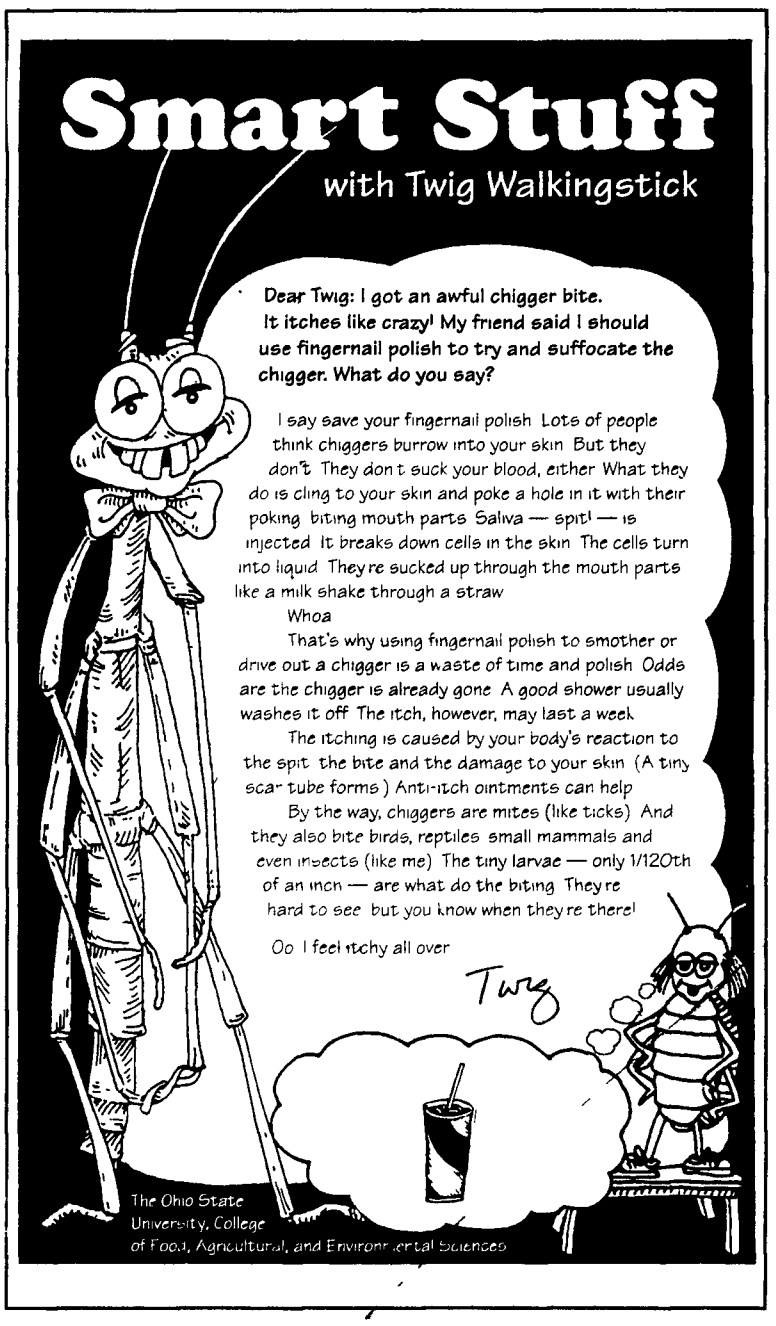
INDIANA (Indiana Co.) - Department of Agriculture Secretary Sam Hayes met a gathering of young fairgoers at the Indiana County Fair recently to promote "Fun Safety on the Fairground."

"Pennsylvania is proud of its ride safety record," Hayes said. "Through proactive educational and outreach programs, the Department of Agriculture is committed to continuing our national leadership in ride safety. My thanks go out to all amusement ride operators, county fairs and fairgoers for encouraging 'fun safety on the fairground'."

While conducting the "Fun Safety on the Fairground" program for children at the fair, Secretary Hayes noted that all fairgoers should always "be alert, be smart, and be safe," and provided several "fun safety" tips:

- Read and obey all posted rules, and observe age, height and weight restrictions.
- Keep hands, arms, and legs inside rides at all times.
- Make sure all provided safety and restraint equipment — such as seat belts, shoulder harnesses and lap bars — fits and is securely positioned before rides begin.
- Stay in rides until they come to a complete stop.
- Children should understand appropriate ride behavior, and the importance of following ride rules and listening to operator instructions.

The Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Ride and Measurement Standards works with ride owners and operators to examine rides to make sure they are safe and functioning properly. The bureau, a respected national leader in ride safety, inspects nearly 4,400 rides at more than 400 amusement-ride operations across Pennsylvania.



Smart Stuff
with Twig Walkingstick
Dear Twig: I got an awful chigger bite. It itches like crazy! My friend said I should use fingernail polish to try and suffocate the chigger. What do you say?
I say save your fingernail polish. Lots of people think chiggers burrow into your skin. But they don't. They don't suck your blood, either. What they do is cling to your skin and poke a hole in it with their poking, biting mouth parts. Saliva — spit! — is injected. It breaks down cells in the skin. The cells turn into liquid. They're sucked up through the mouth parts like a milk shake through a straw.
Whoa.
That's why using fingernail polish to smother or drive out a chigger is a waste of time and polish. Odds are the chigger is already gone. A good shower usually washes it off. The itch, however, may last a week.
The itching is caused by your body's reaction to the spit, the bite and the damage to your skin. (A tiny scar tube forms.) Anti-itch ointments can help.
By the way, chiggers are mites (like ticks). And they also bite birds, reptiles, small mammals and even insects (like me). The tiny larvae — only 1/120th of an inch — are what do the biting. They're hard to see, but you know when they're there!
Oo. I feel itchy all over.

Punkin Chunkin And Fall Festival

YORK (York Co.) — The Farm & Natural Lands Trust with help from WSBA/WARM 103 and the York Expo Center present the third annual Punkin Chunkin and Fall Festival, Saturday, Oct. 13, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the York Expo Center.

Punkin Chunkin is where a team, of a maximum number of five members, builds a human-powered machine to hurl a pumpkin as far as they can. There is a $5 registration fee to enter your team. Your team can enter one of the following four categories, Youth Division I (sixth-eighth grade), Youth Division II (ninth-12th grade), Adult (Family), and Adult (Corporate Sponsored).

Get your Punkin Chunkin machines ready today. The top three finishers in each category will receive trophies. Your team may also buy a T-shirt this year. To register your team or to get more information about Punkin Chunkin, call the Farm & Natural Lands Trust at (717) 843-4411 or visit the Trust's Website at www.farmtrust.org.

The Farm & Natural Lands Trust has preserved over 3,600 acres of farmland and natural lands in York County. Funds from the event will be used to preserve more land in York County.

4-H HAPPENINGS

Roselyn Adams (with plaque) is pictured above with members of the Quick family from whom she received a savings bond and plaque as one of the winners in the Susquehanna County 4-H Dairy Roundup.

Susquehanna County 4-H Dairy Roundup Awards

Again this year, a special award was received by the grand champion showman in both the junior and senior divisions at the Susquehanna County 4-H Dairy Roundup.

The David Quick Memorial award, a savings bond and a plaque were presented to Jessica Sartell, junior champion showman, a member of the North Jackson Ag 4-H Club and Justin Garner, senior champion showman, a member of the Born To Show 4-H Club.

A savings bond and plaque were also presented to the champion owned and bred animal at the Harford Fair youth colored breeds show and the champion owned and bred animal at the Harford Fair Holstein youth show. Roselyn Adams and Nick Pease, both members of the DES 4-H Dairy Club, received these awards.

David was a longtime supporter and leader of the county's 4-H program. This memorial fund established by the Quick family will continue to remind 4-H members and leaders in Susquehanna County of the importance of the 4-H program to David Quick and of his many years of participation and service in the 4-H program.

North Mountain Market Goat Club

On June 16, we watched the video from last year's fair of the goat show. The video showed us how to set your goat up, walk it around the ring, identify body parts, and many other things. It made us aware of what the judges look for.

July 14, our last meeting before the Lebanon Area Fair was conducted at the Dresch's farm. Rules of the fair were discussed. It was reviewed again on how to walk with your goat. Barbecue tickets were collected. We had a picnic afterwards of hot dogs, chips, and drinks.

Red And White Dairy Show At Harford Fair

Guy Wells was born on a dairy farm and lived his entire life on that farm located near Montrose. Guy Wells took pride in his dairy cows and in his memory his family established a memorial award to be given at the Harford Fair at the Red and White dairy show.

Red and White champion embroidered sweatshirts were presented to the youth exhibitor of the junior reserve champion and the senior reserve champion animals.

The junior champion was Hunsinger Pat Strawberry-Red owned and exhibited by Michael Greenwood. Michael is the son of Tim and Amber Greenwood of Montrose. Michael has been showing dairy animals for two years and is a member of the DES 4-H Dairy Club.

The senior champion was Goff Farms Locate Gracy-Red owned and exhibited by Dan Puzo. Dan is the son of Doug and Mary Puzo of Montrose. Dan began showing dairy animals at the Harford Fair when he was 6 years old this year being the 10th year exhibiting dairy animals at Harford. Dan is a member of the Watrous Corners 4-H Club taking the dairy project for seven years.

The junior reserve champion, Goff Farms Sabreberry-Red was owned and exhibited by Abbey Puzo and the senior reserve champion was Goff Farms SC T-Berry-Red owned and exhibited by Dan Puzo.

Consuming Thoughts

by

Fay Strickler

Penn State Extension Home Economist for Berks Co.

A delicious addition to liven up any "end of summer" meal is an icy cold soup. Not only are chilled soups refreshing and a bit out of the ordinary but they can also furnish valuable nutrients and add variety to an everyday meal while using up leftovers or garden produce.

Practically any fruit or vegetable you have on hand could be the start of a delicious soup. Fruit soup, for example, is a great way to use up that last banana or peach that no one seems to eat. Almost any vegetable from your garden can enhance the flavor of Gazpacho, which can be served spicy or mild, depending on your tastes.

Cucumber-yogurt soup is another favorite—it is simple to make, uses up those cucumbers that are so plentiful at the end of summer, and tastes great.

Cold soups can be served as appetizers for dinner or as the main course for lunch, but remember the key is to serve them very cold. Nutritionally, these soups are relatively low in fat, salt, sugar and calories.

Soups made with a dairy product provide calcium, riboflavin and protein while those with fruits and vegetables can provide vitamins C and A. Because eye appeal is such an important factor in how foods are accepted, try one of these garnishes to make your soups "super:" mint leaves, thin cucumber rounds, crunchy croutons, popcorn, twist of lemon or lime, fresh parsley, chopped scallions, dollop of yogurt or even a tiny flower.

Finally, by just serving cold soups in clear, glass bowls, crystal goblets or bowls set in crushed ice, you can create something attractive as well as nutritious that your family will love to try.

Cucumber-Yogurt Soup

4 cups peeled, seeded, chopped cucumbers
½ teaspoon chopped fresh mint leaves
1 ¾ cups water
1 tablespoon honey
2 cups plain yogurt
¼ teaspoon dill weed
1 clove garlic, crushed

Puree everything together in a blender and serve very cold. Serves 6.

Gazpacho

4 cups cold tomato juice
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 onion, minced
¼ cup chopped parsley
2 cups diced tomatoes
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 cup minced green pepper
¾ teaspoon tarragon
1 cucumber, diced
¾ teaspoon basil
2 scallions, chopped
Tabasco sauce, if desired
Juice of 1 lemon

Combine all ingredients, mix well or puree in blender. Serve cold. Serves 6.

Fruit Soup

3 cups unsweetened fruit juice
½ teaspoon dried mint (any kind or a combination)
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 banana
1 cup yogurt or buttermilk
1 apple, peeled, chopped
Honey to taste
1 peach, peeled, chopped

Pieces of any other fresh fruit, cantaloupe, pear, honeydew, etc.

Combine all ingredients and puree in a blender. Serve cold. Serves 6.

Entertain With Quick And Easy Pepper-Lime Veal Fajitas

MIDDLETOWN (Dauphin Co.) — Entertaining during the busy fall season can be a "no hassle affair" when hosting a Make-Your-Own Fajita Buffet. It's an easy way to get friends together for an evening of great food and good conversation.

Pepper-Lime Veal Fajitas can be prepared and ready to serve in just 30 minutes. Before guests arrive, cut lean veal cutlets into strips and marinate them in a lime-garlic mixture. Slice bell peppers and onions and refrigerate separately. When it's time to eat, quickly stir-fry the veal and vegetables.

Guests can have fun assembling their own fajitas. For the host, that means less work and more time to join in the fun. Set out the tortillas and veal-pepper mixture. Add some extras like a couple of different salsas, sour cream and shredded Monterey Jack cheese.

Assorted ice creams and purchased toppings make a sweet and simple ending that's also easy on the cook.

Pepper-Lime Veal Fajitas

1 pound veal shoulder cutlets, cut ⅛ to ¼ inch thick
1 tablespoon olive oil
2 medium red or yellow bell peppers, cut into ¼ inch thick strips
1 medium onion, sliced
Salt and pepper
Chopped fresh cilantro
8 small flour tortillas (6 to 7 inch diameter)
Prepared salsa

Marinade:

3 tablespoons fresh lime juice
1 tablespoon olive oil
2 cloves garlic, minced

1. Stack veal cutlets; cut into 3 by 1-inch strips. Combine marinade ingredients in medium bowl. Add veal strips and marinate 10 minutes.

2. Meanwhile, heat ½ of oil in large nonstick skillet over medium high heat until hot. Add bell peppers and onion; stir-fry 4 to 5 minutes or until crisp-tender. Remove from skillet; keep warm.

3. Drain veal discarding marinade. Add ½ of veal to skillet; stir-fry 1 to 2 minutes or until outside surface of veal is no longer pink. (Do not overcook.) Repeat with remaining oil and veal. Season with salt and pepper as desired.

4. Combine veal and bell pepper mixture. Sprinkle with cilantro as desired, serve with tortillas and salsa.

Makes 4 servings.

Farmers' And Threshermens' Jubilee Celebrates Country Life

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

NEW CENTERVILLE (Somerset Co.) — Folks who attend the 49th anniversary of the Farmers and Threshermens Jubilee on Sept. 5-9 along Route 281 south of Somerset will find the rural event uniquely celebrates country life the way it used to be, working with all manner of well-preserved, steam-powered antiques, according to history buff and publicity steamroller Clark Brocht.

"Steam is the theme," said Brocht.

Whistles splitting the air are music to the ears of this set. Seldom is anything more gratifying to them than the moist white vapors from fired up engines rushing and hissing heavenward to salute the sky.

David Weyand is 38 and still owns a 45hp, 1912 Case Steam Traction Engine he paid $3,500 for when he was 20. He already is sharing with Andrew, his 3-year-old son, the passion he has known since he, himself, was 11.

To get his picture taken, Andrew showed up in denim bib overalls and a pin-striped engineers cap.

"I like blowing the whistle," says the up and comer.

"I'm trying to indoctrinate him as much as possible," says Weyand who, with his wife Shelby, lives mere yards from the Jubilee grounds, where in the off season the owners house their heavyweight treasures in a Jubilee building.

"I take him over and we climb over the stuff at least once a week," Weyand added.

During the Jubilee days the boilers of 25-plus antique steam machines will be fired and used for demonstrations and paraded for visitors intrigued by how electric power is produced to operate the entire Jubilee grounds, the cider press and the working sawmill.

Other impressive sights will be the 800 horsepower Chicago Pneumatic Diesel Engine, the 150 horsepower Reeves Propane Gas Engine and the 75 horsepower Fairbands Morris engine.

Flour from the Stone Burr Mills will be on sale along with handmade handles and fresh cider at the 1901 cider mill.

Brocht says each year the weekend after Labor Day, the Jubilee recreates harvest time with demonstrations of threshing, cider making, log sawing and shingle making. If they can't dance, most folks at least can tap their hands and drum their fingers to country and bluegrass music and appreciate the square dancing.

It will be uproarious fun. Especially the "roar" when tractors and trucks in pulling contests are drowning the chinking sounds of horseshoes landing on sod with a thud or spinning around the slim posts after being pitched the distance by participants.

"What could be more American than baseball?" Brocht asks, then answers his own question with: "Apple Pie."

Brocht is a little embarrassed to admit nearly five decades passed before it was realized the Jubilee should be having a "Best Apple Pie" contest. But it's never too late for a good thing and this is the year.

Deadline for pie submissions is 10 a.m. to 12 noon on Wednesday, Sept. 5, he said.

That same evening at 6:30 the Grand Jubilee Parade will feature marching groups, bands, fire companies and entries from other organizations.

The hilarious and popular "Outhouse Race" at 8:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 5, will be held on the pulling track. For the uninitiated this event will celebrate yet another bygone era when folks were awaiting the advent of indoor plumbing and porcelain commodes. In lieu of these, behind the big houses several times a day they found relative privacy in simple little white houses with a half-moon on their front doors.

Brocht says the man-made racing creations mimic the historical "Outhouse" in a humorous race to the finish.

The Quilt Show and Sale, Brocht says, is a collection of "pieces and patches" upstairs in the banquet hall. It opens at 1 p.m. Sept. 5.

Otherwise, for the kids there is fun aplenty with Pedal Power Tractor Pull and a Hay Bale Toss for starters.

Saturday, Sept. 8, at 11 a.m., the featured fun is an Arm Wrestling Tournament.

Take Exit 10 off the Pennsylvania Turnpike to Route 281 south and continue 9 more miles.

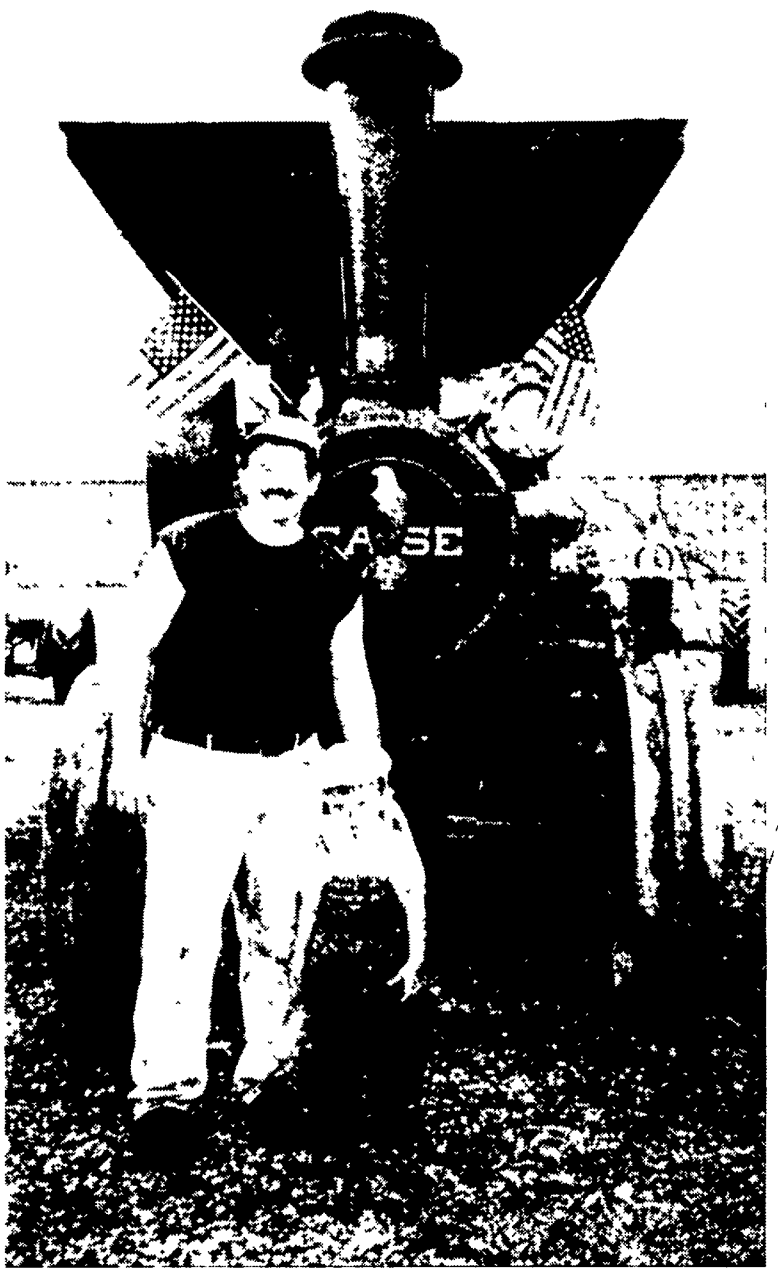
All proceeds benefit the New Centerville and Rural Volunteer Fire Company.



David Weyand with his son, Andrew, three, are pictured in a front view of Weyands steam engine, a 1912, 45hp Case Steam Traction Engine, manufactured by Case Threshing Machine Co., Racine Wis.

"I like blowing the whistle," says young Andrew Weyand of New Centerville. He stands at the water column on the Case Steam Traction Engine owned by his dad, David Weyand.

This collection of steam engines will be in alignment during the New Centerville Farmers and Threshermens Jubilee, Sept. 5-9. At that time there will be 25 of them. On this day while the building was being upgraded with new concrete, the pieces, owned by a variety of people, had to be moved outdoors.

Frustrated With Sibling Rivalry?

TUNHANNOCK (Wyoming Co.) — As summer vacation draws to a close, many parents are at their wits end with "sibling rivalry." It is frustrating for both kids and parents. Parents can feel overwhelmed by this fighting and many feel they are doing something wrong because their kids don't get along like they think they should. Take comfort in knowing that sibling rivalry is as old as our civilization.

Although conflict cannot be avoided, there are things parents can do to help maintain a healthy relationship in the family.

• Establish rules for interacting: Decide what is absolutely unacceptable behavior and enforce these rules all of the time. These rules can include; no physical harm to each other; no damaging property; no name calling; asking before using something...or whatever you feel is needed in your home.

• Plan ahead: Try to figure out when conflicts are most likely to occur and think about what you might be able to do to lessen these occurrences. Some common areas when conflicts arise include TV watching, car seating arrangements, who's first, gets bigger piece. Anticipate these problems as best you can, and if possible, involve the kids in figuring out a solution before the conflict.

• Understand development: Children go through different stages in development, and it is helpful for parents to find out about these stages through reading or talking with their doctor or others who are knowledgeable. Help older children understand these stages when they are dealing with their younger siblings.

• Encourage each child to be an individual: Just because siblings are close in age does not mean that they should do everything together. Recognize each child's individual strengths, help each to develop their own special interests, and encourage them to participate in activities separate from their brother or sister. Certainly avoid comparing children to each other.

• Don't force one child to make continual sacrifices for another: Sometimes it is easiest to always ask the older child to accommodate the younger, or the more easy — going to accommodate the more strong-willed child. This can lead to anger and resentment which can eventually lead to bigger problems.

• Don't insist they always share or play with each other: Allow each child to have some toys or items which they do not have to share with anyone and have a special place for them to keep these items. Sometimes an older child might want to play with their friends without a younger sibling. Allow them this space and use this time to do something special with the other child.

• Do spend time with each child individually: Hard as it is on parents, the fact is when there is more than one child in the home, all need special attention, and the parent's job is going to be very demanding. It is important that parent's understand this fact.

• Balance the responsibilities and privileges of everyone: While an older child may have more privileges and responsibilities, try to be fair in how and when both responsibilities and privileges are granted. Listen to your child when they want to discuss these issues and stay open to suggestions, but don't go against your better judgment in an attempt to make everyone happy. Sometimes what is best, is not fair.

If you are looking for a recipe but can't find it, send your recipe request to Lou Ann Good, Cook's Question Corner, in care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. There's no need to send a self-addressed stamped envelope. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible. Check your recipe to make sure you copy the right amounts and complete instructions for making the recipe. Sometimes we receive numerous answers to the same request, but cannot print each one.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address. You may also e-mail questions and answers to lgood.eph@lnpnews.com

Notice: Several readers write that they have problems accessing this address. The common mistake is that readers are substituting an "i" for the lowercase "l (L)" needed in two places. If you are having problems reaching this address, please check to make sure you are typing a lowercase "l (L)" in both places and not a lower or uppercase "i" or "I."

QUESTION — Barbara Randall, Bloomfield, N.Y., recently purchased instant Clear Jel at a bulk food store and would like recipes and advice for using it. She also saw regular Clear Jel and a product called Dutch Jel and wanted to know, is the latter item for jams and jellies? She didn't get a company brochure. Randall also sends thanks for all the recipes over the years, especially one for soft chocolate chip cookies with instant vanilla pudding in the dough. She shared that recipe many times.

ANSWER — Barbara Randall, Bloomfield, N.Y., sends us an answer for Anna Bryan, Oxford, N.J., who wants to freeze tomatoes now and cook down for sauce next winter. Randall writes: "I wash, core, and quarter tomatoes when they are plentiful in summer, then 'mash' into freezer containers. They can be thawed and put through a food mill to remove skins and seeds, then the puree can be made into sauce at leisure. Seasoning mixes for spaghetti sauce, pizza sauce, salsa, etc. that my family likes can be obtained from the Ball Company's Home Essentials catalog. You can obtain their catalog by calling (800) 392-2575. During the recent hot summer, I figured out a means to remove excess liquid from tomatoes for sauce. After cooking cut-up tomatoes until tender, I pour them into a big colander lined with cheesecloth, set over a big bowl, before I run them through the food mill. After a few minutes I discard the almost-clear liquid in the bowl and eliminate a lot of long, hot evaporation."

4-H HAPPENINGS

132 Ribbons Awarded At Delaware County 4-H Fair

Rain didn't dampen any 4-H spirit at the annual Delaware County 4-H Fair on Aug. 10 and 11. Many visitors joined the youth and families of 4-H — watching demonstrations of skill, judging of livestock, quality of vegetables raised, educational posters and examples of products made by the members.

4-H members who participated in the fair earned 132 ribbons for their efforts.

Champion and reserve champion ribbons awarded for livestock follow:

Market lambs — champion owned by Meredith Ruzowicz of Newtown Square and reserve champion owned by Ryan O'Keefe of Havertown.

Market hogs — champion owned by Neal Bozentka Jr. of Newtown Square and reserve champion owned by David Hanna of Newtown Square.

White Leghorn Laying Hens — champion owned by Tori Bonner of Thornton and reserve champion owned by Charlie Anderson of Darby.

Red SexSal Laying Hens — champion owned by Anthony Skalski of Newtown Square and reserve champion owned by Emilie Davis of Springfield.

Prizewinning vegetables were displayed. The junior champion was Eileen Hislop of Newtown Square and junior reserve champion was Michael Africa of Ardmore. The senior champion was Patrick Africa of Ardmore and senior reserve champion was Adam Murphy of Kennett Square.

The Delaware County Horse Show gave Cooperative Horse Project Members an opportunity to demonstrate their riding skill on horses. The 12 exhibitors rode the four horses for which they care and which are owned by or on loan to Delaware County 4-H. The members were judged on horsemanship skills and speed for gaming events. Champion of the Speed Events was Neon Colasante of Newtown Square, and reserve champion was Lauren DePaul of Broomall. Champion of Horsemanship Skills was Sarah Coletta of Havertown and reserve champion was Neon Colasante.

Members were judged on posters and demonstrations about their completed projects. Topics of the 20 posters included pet care, woodworking, dairy products, poultry industry, food safety, horse equipment, and more.

The silent auction raised more than $1,300 through the generosity of local businesses. Volunteers for the silent auction, the Snack Bar, the Favorite Project Animal and the Country Store assured successful fund raising efforts in support of the programs and facilities of 4-H.

The livestock auction provided the opportunity for the purchase of market lambs and hogs for butchering and home use. This year, three lambs and one and one-half hogs were purchased for donation to Philabundance by supporters of 4-H.

25th Annual Hay Creek Fall Festival Sept. 7-9

GEIGERTOWN (Berks Co.) — Whether you've been a history buff all your life or haven't cracked a historical book in years, the Hay Creek Festival Sept. 7-9, is one weekend adventure you won't want to miss. Held every September on the grounds of the Historic Joanna Furnace, Hay Creek brings the reality of Early American Life to the forefront. Started in 1977 by the Hay Creek Valley Historical Association (HCVHA), the Festival is resplendent with Civil War re-enactments, open-hearth and festival foods, crafts, live entertainment, demonstrations and period interpretation.

The Mechanical Technology Area has long been a drawing point with visitors of all ages. In fact, upon crossing the footbridge that leads you to this quaint American Village, the sounds and smells of wood fired steam engines whistling and tractors roaring to life remind you that you are no longer in the 21st century. This area also features row upon row of antique engines, some small enough to fit in the hand, plus many unique tractors that were used in every aspect of farming. Tractor lovers will recognize vintage models manufactured by Ferguson, Allis, Case and Ford and some not so common names such as Cletrac and Hart Parr.

Another major area of interest is the Civil War Encampment located on Furnace Hill, overlooking the Charcoal Barn. Here male and female interpreters enchant spectators while dressed in military and civilian garb. While the men engaged in "battle," the women assisted in the makeshift hospital by providing water to thirsty soldiers, assisted in bandaging wounds and offered them food. Their efforts fell under the auspices of the U.S. Sanitary Commission (the precursor to the American Red Cross). Simple re-enactments, basic drills and marching maneuvers are conducted throughout the weekend on Saturday and Sunday.

Michael Kochan, of Paoli, returns this year with an incredible display of naval and submarine artifacts. Kochan is considered the foremost authority in Civil War Maritime History.

A sundry of craft items also await you with nearly 200 exhibits to choose from. See broom makers in action or learn the fine art of basket making. Children will be fascinated by the sheep shearing demonstration as the animals give up their wooly coats. Two major craft areas consist of the early American crafts with demonstrations and interpretation and the Craft Marketplace (next to the Festival Food Court) with wide array of contemporary crafts.

Scherenschnitte, or intricate paper cutting as it is commonly called, is one of nearly 200 crafts that can be found at this year's festival. Doll collectors will be pleased at the overwhelming selection broom dolls, dolls with hand-painted faces, Christmas dolls, dolls made of muslin and those with soft sculptured bodies.

David H. Hoffman from Denver, demonstrates the art of calligraphy with a quill pen at the Hay Creek Festival, Historic Joanna Furnace.

At noon, the lunch whistle sounds signaling all farmhands (and visitors) that it's eatin' time. Prepared right before your eyes-open hearth style is a selection of goodies you won't want to miss. Get yourself some Apple Pot Pie, "chomp salad" (a blend of tomatoes, peppers, onions and spices), Irish Potatoes and wash it down with a tall glass of old-fashioned "mint tea." Or if your family prefers more basic fare head down to the Festival Food Court and order up some hamburgers and hot dogs. Here again, comfort foods such as sausage sandwiches and ice cream awaken the senses and leave you wishing you could taste a little of everything.

After lunch, you may be tempted to snooze under the shade of a tall tree or pull up a lawn chair and watch the Antique Car and Tractor Parade. Kids and those old enough to remember "yesteryear" will enjoy this spectacle, held daily, complete with live commentary about each vehicle.

Entertainment at Hay Creek is always a crowd pleaser. Performers include John Lionarons, and Jay Smar to name a few. The 20th Main Fife and Drum Corp. will present thrilling 'Field Music' with interpretation helping everyone to understand the music of the Civil War. Hands-on activities are held throughout the day for children throughout the festival grounds.

Unique Organization To Promote Land-Use Planning

GREENSBURG (Westmoreland Co.) — More than 100 community leaders gathered at the University of Pittsburgh at Greensburg Aug. 14 to officially launch the Smart Growth Partnership of Westmoreland County, a non-profit organization focused on promoting land-use planning.

The organization is unique in Pennsylvania and its formation was spearheaded by Sen. Allen Kukovich (D-Westmoreland) and Dr. Frank Cassell, president of the Pitt-Greensburg campus.

At the announcement ceremony, Alex Graziani, AICP, of Greensburg was named the first executive director of the Smart Growth Partnership and his offices will be based on campus. Graziani previously served as director of planning in Clearfield County, and most recently was a planning consultant at Benatec Associates in Greensburg.

More than 35 community leaders, including developers, conservationists, and local elected officials, serve on the organization's executive committee and have worked for more than a year shaping the structure and goals of the Smart Growth Partnership. The Office of the chair is an 11-member body, representing both the public and private sectors, which will work on a daily basis with Graziani to implement the organization's strategic plan.

The mission of the organization is to work with communities who are facing the challenges associated with economic growth, and educate planning and zoning boards on the opportunities that exist to develop comprehensive plans. Through educational outreach and project advocacy, communities can learn of the economic and quality of life impacts associated with growth, and make informed decisions concerning future growth.

A copy of the organizational plan of the Smart Growth Partnership can be found at http://www.kukovich.org or by calling (724) 832-5375.

Shop Explores 'Antiques And Elderly Things'

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

SCHELLSBURG (Bedford Co.) — Antiques and Elderly Things is an antique shop located in a historic building in a National Historic District.

The tree-lined town of Schellsburg, located on old Lincoln Highway, received the announcement of its official new title at the annual kick-off parade for Labor Day festivities.

Located in the original Independent Order of Odd Fellows' Hall, Frank Stouffer and Joan Robertson, owners of Antiques and Elderly Things are proud of the four-story building which was built in 1876 with bricks from a local farm. The building has been in continual use as a general store, a meat market, and town meeting hall. The building had its first in-door plumbing installed in 1999.

Frank manages the store but gives credit for the success of the shop to Joan. "She does the buying and does a wonderful job," Frank said. "Her knowledge of antiques is outstanding."

Joan said she developed her interest in antiques many years ago.

"It's like going on a treasure hunt," she said. "You find a piece and you want to know more about it. It leads you to do research. While you are at the library researching, you find a lot of information about other antiques. One thing just leads to another."

"And Joan retains everything she learns," Frank said. "I can hear the stories over and over, but when I'm walking through an auction house I find it is difficult to remember what I have heard. She has no problem."

Most of the inventory for this shop, which claims no specialty but leans toward larger pieces of furniture, comes from private sales. "We go to auctions but that is a lot of work," Frank said. "You sit for two hours waiting for something in which you have an interest and then every antique dealer in the state wants it. We do buy at auction warehouses, but the majority of our items come from private or estate sales."

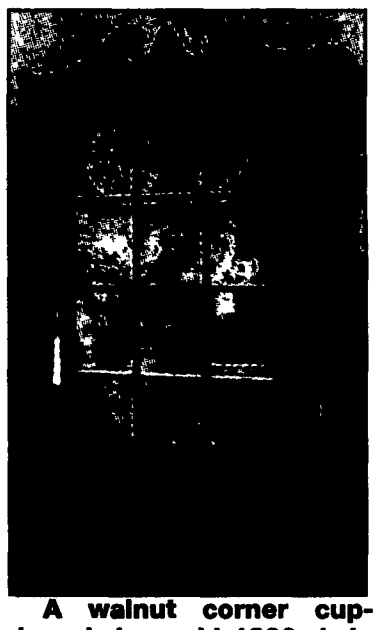
Despite a somewhat depressed economy, Frank said the little Schellsburg store has been doing well.

"We deliver and that makes a big difference with larger items," he said. About 60 percent of their traffic comes from the Greensburg/ Latrobe area with many items going as far as Washington D.C. or Pittsburgh.

Most customers are in the 30-to-45 age bracket and are looking for antiques to decorate their homes. "A lot of folks feel and rightly so that antique furniture was built better then the modern factories are turning out today," Frank said.

"Right now we have two fabulous pieces in the store," Joan said. "One is a corner cupboard circa 1840 made from walnut. The other is a cherry English sideboard from the mid-1870s. Both of these items are in excellent condition, looking as though they just left the furniture shop."

The original Odd Fellows Building houses the Antiques and Elderly Things.



A walnut corner cupboard circa mid-1800s is in excellent condition.

A large machine carved dresser with Bombay sides is also very attractive. Frank said, "It is machine-carved because it was made after the Industrial Revolution."

"The interesting thing about these carvings is that there was usually a face over the mirror," Joan said. "That face was often recognizable as being the queen of England or some such person. This one, however, is just a face."

Joan herself collects fairy lamps. These are candle holders with glass globes. "Some of mine date back to the mid-1800s," she said. The recent comeback in the popularity of candles has created a whole new surge of modern day fairy lamps. Fenton glass has made a large number of these.

"They were known as the burglar's horror," said Joan. "By keeping a candle lit in a fairy lamp, a burglar in the house could easily be detected." Her favorite is a blue glass flower with green glass leaves from the mid-1800s.

A royal blue glass and silver cremation urn makes an excellent conversation piece.

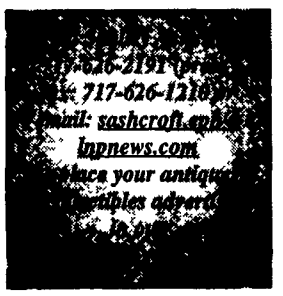
Another quaint collectible in the shop is a royal blue glass and silver cremation urn. "They are great conversation pieces," said Joan.

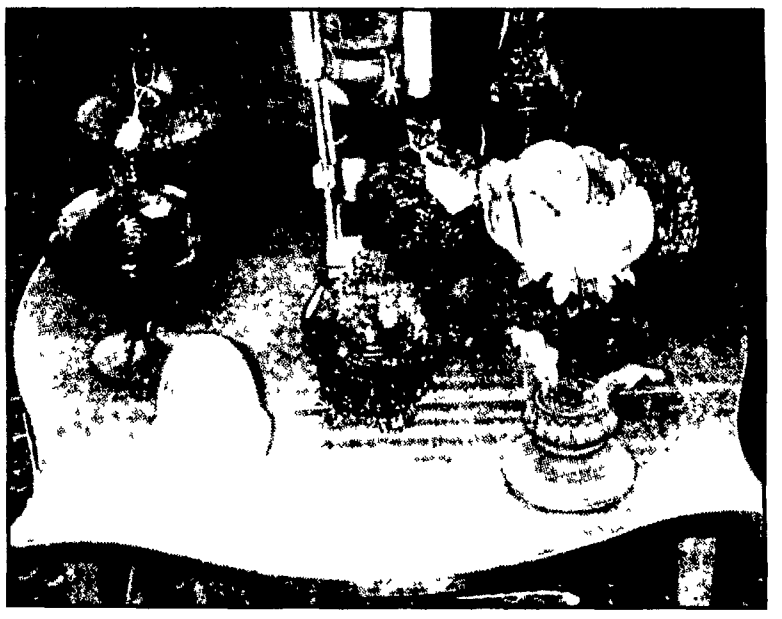
Whatever your collectible, you just might find it at Antiques and Elderly Things. "Remember the rule it must be 100 years old to be an antique. However, items with fewer birthdays will be just as valuable someday," said Joan.

On the shelves throughout the shop you can find vases; salt and pepper shakers; dishes; including china; Halls; and other Depression-era items.

There are scary masks and strange-looking hats from the Odd Fellows Hall, a branding iron, a few toys, and an assortment of other working tools and beautiful items from the past.

The carving of a face over the mirror was often done in the period just following the Industrial Revolution.





These are fairy lamps. The one on the left is a Fenton glassware more modern fairy lamp. On the right is a blue glass flower fairy lamp from the mid-1800s.

Big Bucks Ride On Carousel Animals

There have always been a small group of carousel animal collectors, and the market for early examples has always reflected high prices.

However, it wasn't till they came to auction at Sotheby's in 1990 that collector interest grew as they were recognized as yet another form of American folk art.

Today many are part of private folk art collections including many categories. So, when four choice examples by Gustav A. Dentzel, America's first carousel animal carver, came to the Aug. 12 Skinner American Furniture and Decorative Arts auction, estimates of $6,000 to $25,000 seemed reasonable enough.

Surprise, surprise! Heavy phone and floor bidding quickly doubled and tripled estimates. Top seller was a carved and painted carousel figure of a rabbit, c.1905, carved by Dentzel. It sold for a whopping $63,000 over its $20,000/$25,000 estimate.

Examples by Dentzel, who began carving carousel animals in 1867, in Germantown, are mostly in museums. Later 19th and early 20th century animals were made by Gustav and his Brother William Dentzel in their Philadelphia shop.

"What made the rabbit, cat, and pig so special was not only original paint, but the fact that the carving was done by a remarkable Sicilian carver, nicknamed 'Cherni,' who was hired by Dentzel," said Martha Hamilton, Skinner's American folk art specialist.

"Cherni was famed in Italy as a decorative carver for palaces."

By the late 1870s, when fairs and carnivals rivaled the circus in popularity, the need for carousel animal carvers grew. The merry-go-round with only horse figures soon added a veritable menagerie. Many were exported to Europe. Nearly a dozen companies were kept busy at that time. By then most carvers were working in major cities.

Antique Detective

CLUES: Since several carvers worked on the animals, most remained unknown. However, some of the carvers can be recognized by their style, and other times by billing records, where there were shops. One, Charles Louff, who worked beginning in 1880 is known for his detailing. For example, he carved locks of curled hair on a horse's mane in different directions that gave the animal a baroque look. He also added other touches, such as a pair of birds hanging on the hind part of the horse, giving the effect of a rider returning from a hunt. Special detailing was added to saddles and blankets. Louff did his carving in Coney Island, New York, along Marcus Illions and Charles Carmel.

Another important name is Bob Crandle of New York city. His horse figures were made from large pine-tree trunks with the limbs carved separately and doweled into position. His whimsical painting of the creatures turned them into pintos or even zebras.

There are actually two styles of American carousels. The "park-style" was built for permanent installations in large amusement centers. The "park-style" usually consisted of from three to five rows with 45 to 68 animals on a platform. Since the outside row was meant to be seen and attract riders, the animals were larger and lavishly decorated.

The other style is "country fair." These animals were smaller made for stacking and packing. They sell for much less at auction.

The horse is by far the most common figure. Rarer forms included lions, giraffes, and ostriches.

White and yellow pine and bass were the most popular woods since they were easy to carve. It didn't take much sanding or polishing to detail mane, head, and tail. Since they were made to be outdoors in varied weather, repainting was a periodic necessity.

Reproductions have been made in wood, polyester resins and aluminum. Other times, the inside carousel horses that were originally plainly decorated have been newly decorated. Reproduction from the Far East abound. Sold here as antiques, prices can be as high as $900. Look for pole holes that are in front of the saddle.

Early 20th century horses made in Europe can be had for $2,000 in shops.

Regardless of age or origin, extensive repairs and new parts lower values.

There are still antique carousels still in business with original menagerie figures. A free list is available. Send business-size, self-addressed, stamped envelope to America's Antique Carousels, P.O. Box 6459, Dept. TC, Santa Fe, NM 87502.

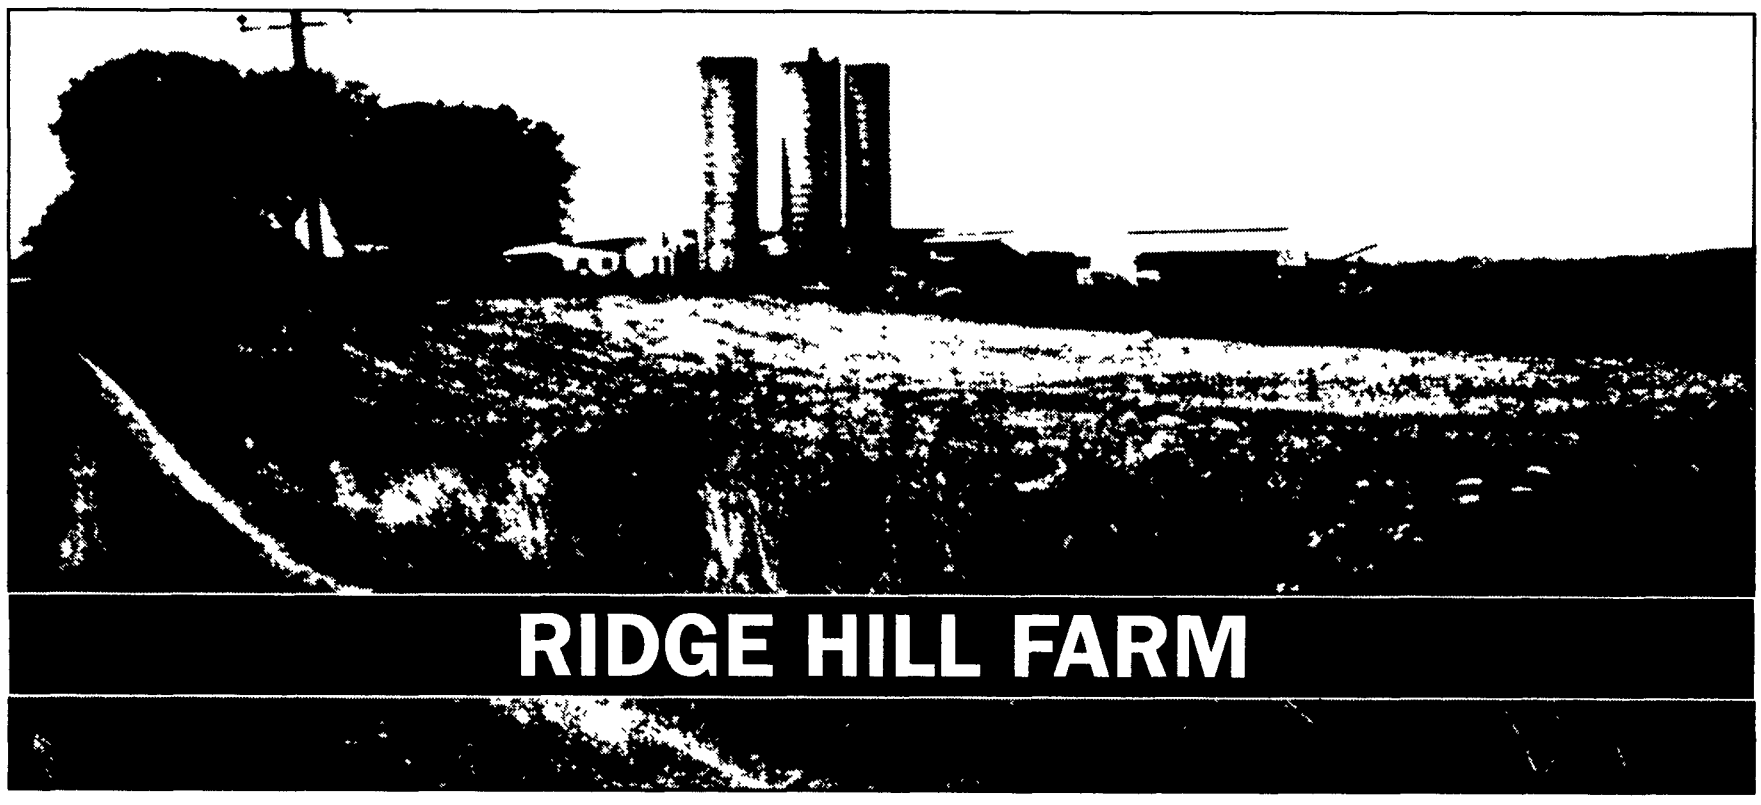
CONSOLIDATED NUTRITION, L.L.C.



RIDGE HILL FARM

Leonard Greek Family
Delta, PA

"We have been feeding with Service Feed and Supply, Cardiff, MD and Consolidated Nutrition for over 22 years, and have been well satisfied with the service we receive and the performance we have experienced." On our June test day we achieved a 91.7 pound tank average at 235 days in milk, 3.7% butterfat and 3.0% protein! Cows Babar and Bert have achieved 35,464 and 32,251 pound lactations respectively. A third cow Laura, has been between 130 and 160 pounds of milk for the first 6 monthly test days of her current lactation."

July test day update!

In July's heat the cows had a tank average of 89 pounds with 22 of the 58 cows testing over 100 pounds of milk! Rolling Herd Average is 26,606 milk, 957 butterfat, 780 protein.

Shown in picture are Leonard & Bonnie Jo Greek with daughters, Stormi (17), Stevie (10), Frankie (9), and son, Michael (16).

"Feeding a balanced ration with top quality forages, managing cow comfort, using top genetics, and responding to the cows are the keys to our success. We depend on our suppliers to provide us with expert assistance, timely information, and prompt service. We are well pleased with the job Service Feed and Supply and Consolidated Nutrition are doing for us."

Pack-Herd Encore Bell Toll Supreme At Troy Open Dairy Show

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Bradford Co. Correspondent

TROY (Bradford Co.) — "Congratulations to all the breeders," said judge Dennis Ferguson before naming Pack-Herd Encore Bell Toll, a Holstein owned by David Packard, the supreme champion of the Troy Fair open dairy shows.

The supreme champion received an additional $200 prize from Vigortone.

Ferguson gave Nobledale Pitino Victoria-ET, a Jersey owned by Nobledale Farm, the reserve supreme position. For that distinction Nobledale Farm received an additional $100 prize from AgriKing.

John Crawford showed the reserve senior and reserve grand champion Holstein, senior 3-year-old Ho-Crawf Mandel Pamela.

Ben and Dean Jackson captured both the premier breeder and premier exhibitor banners of the show.

The show posted the following results.

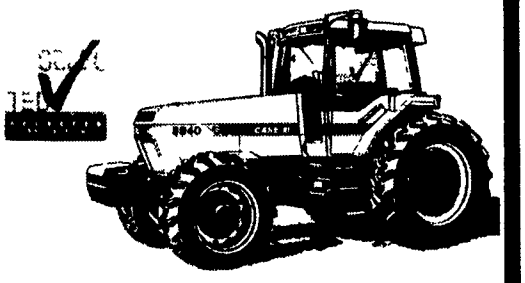
Check with Binkley & Hurst Bros. for a Case IH Certified Magnum Tractor today!

Someone Else Owned This Tractor, But You'd Never Know it



That's because this 8900 Series MAGNUM™ tractor has been through our 138-point Selected by Case IH reconditioning program. A program that is not just a "clean up" of a used tractor.

The standards are rigid and demanding. Tractors must be clean, low-hour and highly maintained units to be eligible for this program Those that qualify are measured against a detailed checklist to assure "as new" performance and dependability and include

- independent lab testing of driveline component fluids,
- new genuine Case IH fluids and filters installed,
- hydraulics are flow tested,
- major components calibrated to factory specifications,
- dyno-testing of the tractor,
- all required factory upgrades are made,
- thorough reconditioning of the interior and exterior,
- and, a 12-month or 1,000 hour, non-deductible Case IH powertrain warranty.

You'll have peace of mind knowing your pre-owned tractor is backed by Case IH and your dealer. It's just another service from your Case IH dealer that makes buying your "as new" tractor an easy, affordable process

CASE IH MX Series Magnum

Case IH is delighted to present the most technologically advanced agricultural tractor on the market today. Combining customer input with cutting-edge technology, Case engineers designed and built a tractor with unsurpassed productivity and versatility.

The all new MX Series Magnum tractors set new standards in performance, reliability, durability, operator comfort, ease of operation and productivity with fourteen industry leading features.

The Latest In Tractor Power From Binkley & Hurst Bros. Today.
Beautiful Interiors with Automated Comfort control
Note Extra Rider Seat for Convenience.

The Shortest Turning Large Tractor You Can Own Today! Simple, User-Friendly Operation.

Industry Leading Turning Radius

The revolutionary chassis of the MX Series Magnum improves your overall performance and productivity. In fact, the innovative Surround frame allows for the tightest turning radius in the industry, even with front duals!

Thanks to axle improvements, engine placement and a sleek hood design, the MX Series Magnum can easily turn into 12 30-inch rows with all row crop tire configurations on true 60-inch tread settings

The new, single-piece, sculpted, cast iron Surround frame is the key to the enhanced capabilities and performance of these tractors. It enables the MX Series Magnum to offer the first factory front duals, dramatically improving both traction and flotation By balancing the c[illegible] we've significantly reduced the amount of front ballast required And the frame [illegible]dates mounted chemical tanks or loaders, allowing you to perform multiple appli[illegible]

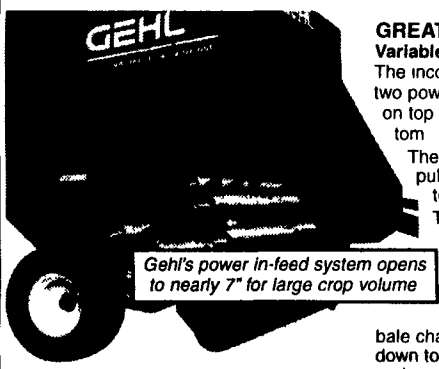
GEHL. MODEL RB 2580 ROUND BALERS

Featuring the ALL-NEW Variable Open-Throat Power In-Feed System



Gehl's power in-feed system opens to nearly 7" for large crop volume

GREAT BALING STARTS HERE

Variable Open-Throat Power In-Feed System Here's how it works The incoming crop is pulled off the pickup by the aggressive action of two power in-feed rolls – a 6-inch-diameter pivoting power in-feed roll on top and and 8-inch diameter fixed power in-feed roll on the bottom

The top pivoting power in-feed roll rides over the crop as it is pulled into the bale chamber An extension spring keeps the toproll under constant downward force

The spring tension increases as the variable throat opens from a minimum of 3/4 of an inch up to a maximum opening of nearly 7 inches

The constant downward force of the pivoting upper powered in-feed roll, in combination with the fixed lower in-feed roll, both turning inward, pinches the crop and forces it into the bale chamber The stripping roll strips crop off the belt and forces it down to the incoming crop Adjustable scrapers on the stripping roll and pivoting roll eliminate buildup

THREE-BALL TWINE BOX. Gehl balers are designed to keep you going all day long with six-ball twine storage. They're located in full-size doors that open to provide easy access to baler components like an optional chain oiler system or the Total Density Control adjustments

GAUGE WHEELS. Allow the pickup to follow field contours while keeping tines out of the dirt. That saves wear and tear on the pickup and means less dirt in your bale. Gauge wheels are standard equipment with the wide pickup and an option with some others

BELTS. Deluxe balers feature chevron belts (pictured above) with heavy duty, plate-type belt lacing. The belts ar e 6-1/2 inches wide for closer spacing between belts and less space between the belts and side sheets. Betls are configured in a staggered pattern to minimize trash build-up.

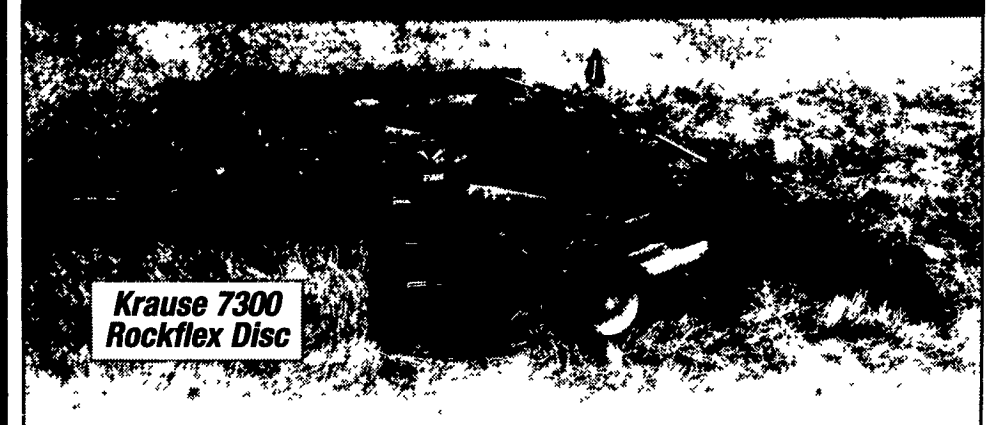
NOTHING Compares To A Krause Disc



"Krause discs are made well and are tough enough to get the job done. In fact, on our last Krause disc, the original bearings lasted 18 years."

Dale Hoover farms over 500 acres in Lebanon, PA and often encounters rocky fields and narrow roads So when he wanted a new disc, he bought another Krause Disc from Hoober "We have some very rocky fields and the new Krause 7300 Disc stood up to the rocks We used it for over 400 acres so far this year and didn't have any problems And the disc has a narrow transport of 11' 6" which is an important factor, because we do a lot of transporting on the roads," says Dale

Another important factor for Dale was the resale value of Krause discs "We bought our first Krause disc from Hoober in 1981, and it was still in good shape when we traded it this year -- they really have great resale value "

And to ensure that Dale's Krause disc stays in the field, Hoober backs it with top-notch service and parts support "They have always had the parts we need and we were very pleased with the service we got," says Dale

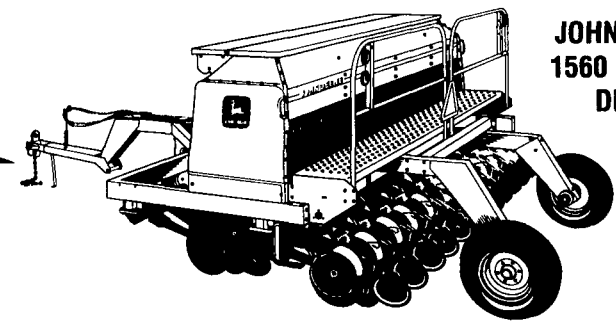
JOHN DEERE 1560 NO-TILL DRILL



NO-TILL? NO PROBLEM.

- Here's the drill that truly outperforms the lengendary 750 Drill.
- Apply as much as 450 pounds of down-force per opener for penetrating tough no-till; turn off down-force to give openers 2 inches of float for accurate depth control in mellow conditions.
- Plain-grain seedbox capacity is boosted 25 percent... now 3 1/2 bushels per foot; boxes fill evenly, empty completely.
- Grass-seed capacity has doubled (plain-grain only).
- Available in 10-, 15-, and 20-foot widths; 7 1/2 or 10-inch spacing.

NEW 3000 SERIES TELEHANDLERS

Take material handling to new heights

JOHN DEERE
3400THANDA

Lift more, higher, farther, and faster with the next generation of farm equipment. The all-new John Deere 3000 Series Telehandler gives you the ultimate in versatility and maneuverability. Reach up to 23 feet and lift up to 6,600 pounds. And, simultaneous hydraulic flow speeds up cycle times by letting you perform all functions at once.

Three steering modes will get you in and out of cramped spaces, while the spacious cab offers unmatched visibility. A patented attachment system lets you make fast changeovers from the cab, so you can dig, lift, scoop, sweep ... anything imaginable! See us today and learn how to take your material handling to new heights.

SELF-PROPELLED FORAGE HARVESTERS

High quality and high performance in every chop

Super-powered and fuel-efficient, John Deere Forage Harvesters help you get the most from every cut. Plus, a new larger hydro gives you faster speeds and saves fuel during transport.

Check out the new sharpening system on the exclusive Dura-Drum™ cutterhead. It lets you sharpen knives in less than three minutes. And it sharpens in reverse, so knives last longer.

Want more capacity? Go with a new 10 row 710 Rotary Harvesting Unit. Or choose from four other row independent headers, two row crop units or three windrow pickups in sizes to fit every operation.

Get the most from your forage. See us today to learn more. Even better, ask for a demonstration.

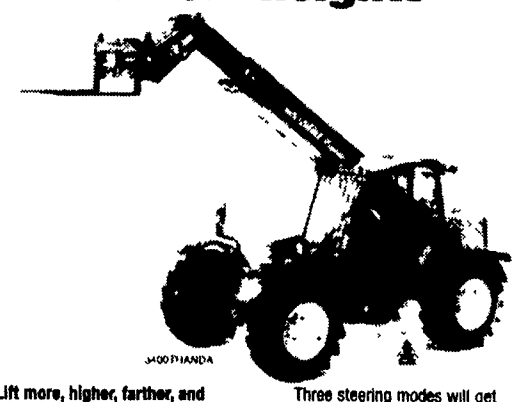
NEW 3000 SERIES TELEHANDLERS

Take material handling to new heights



Lift more, higher, farther, and faster with the next generation of farm equipment. The all-new John Deere 3000 Series Telehandler gives you the ultimate in versatility and maneuverability. Reach up to 23 feet and lift up to 6,600 pounds. And, simultaneous hydraulic flow speeds up cycle times by letting you perform all functions at once.

Three steering modes will get you in and out of cramped spaces, while the spacious cab offers unmatched visibility. A patented attachment system lets you make fast changeovers from the cab, so you can dig, lift, scoop, sweep anything imaginable! See us today and learn how to take your material handling to new heights.

Why
would anyone pay more for an older, smaller combine, more hours, fewer features, when he could have a 1996 JD 9600 with all the extras including double spinner chaff spreader and bin extension? This machine comes with a good 922 floating head, parts, technical and instruction manuals, a head hauler and total of 805/534 hours. Always inside. I planned to keep this machine "forever" but health has dictated otherwise.
Asking $70,000 for package.

New Holland 1431 DISCBINE

Stop In Or Call For Great Deals

Cut faster... condition better

For greater maneuverability and higher efficiency, nothing beats the Model 1431 Discbine® disc mower-conditioner from New Holland. It features a 13' cutting width, and operates at high ground speeds in wet, heavy grass without plugging. Fire anthills and gopher mounds won't stop the new Model 1431 either. Outstanding features include:

- A center pivot-tongue design
- Independent modular cutterbar with ten small-diameter cutting discs
- 102" wide conditioning rolls
- A full range of vertical and lateral flotation
- A torsion-bar, roll-pressure system
- A cutterbar driven from both ends

NEW HOLLAND

For maximum harvesting efficiency, check out the Model 1431 Discbine. It's the best in the field and it's in stock now!

Move mountains of forage

Keeping pace with your harvester and forage wagons can be a challenge...unless you have a New Holland forage blower. Choose from two models that move mountains of forage–fast!

Model F62B

- High-capacity blower center-fills silos over 100 feet tall
- 37-inch large-capacity hopper; 12-inch feed auger; 60-inch diameter blower fan
- Blows 180 tons per hour of corn silage; 110 tons per hour of haylage

Model 40 Whirl-a-Feed®

- Center fills silos 80 feet and higher
- Efficient Whirl-A-Feed® high-speed rotary table spins crop into the blower
- Blows 150 tons of corn silage per hour; 80 tons of haylage per hour

Come in for a demonstration today!

AgriPro, ConAgra Quality Wheat Program Offers Premium Price

BERTHOUD, Colo. — AgriPro Wheat and ConAgra Flour Milling are teaming up to provide wheat growers in the region an opportunity for a premium price to produce special quality grain.

Under the exclusive agreement, farmers can grow specific AgriPro Wheat varieties for contracted delivery to ConAgra designated sites. The program was launched three years ago with contracted acreage near the Martins Creek, Pa., ConAgra Milling facility. Contracted acreage has expanded every year since, and this year's special quality grain program will include wheat producers in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, and Virginia.

"It's an identity-preserved program which could provide added income to wheat growers who participate," said Don Eckhoff, AgriPro Wheat's regional business manager.

AgriPro Wheat varieties that provide optimal milling performance for ConAgra are included in the program. A new variety, AgriPro Charter, is being added this year to go along with AgriPro Hondo as varieties to be grown under the special quality grain contract.

Bill Kuntz, national marketing manager for AgriPro Wheat, says that both ConAgra Flour Milling and AgriPro are optimistic about the future of this program, as the demand for special quality traits increases. "The industry is moving more and more to producing identity-preserved wheat with specialized traits for specific markets, and we are positioning our wheat development program nationwide with this trend in mind," said Kuntz.

New Idea® 1500 Pull-Type Forage Harvesters Deliver High Capacity

ATLANTA, Ga. — By moving crops through the machine in a direct line, New Idea 1500 forage harvesters promise increased efficiency, capacity and feed quality.

"All crop entering the pull-type 1500 forage harvester is cut, processed and blown in a straight line," says Tony Solon, New Idea general marketing manager. "This eliminates changes of crop-flow direction which can reduce capacity and increase power requirements. The straight-flow design also gives the 1500 performance previously only available from self-propelled units."

A 22-inch (560-mm) diameter by 24-inch (690-mm) wide cutting cylinder accepts four, six or 12 full-width, tungsten-carbide-edged, helical knives to deliver cutting lengths of ¼ inch (6.3 mm) to 1½ inches (38 mm). The shearbar can be quickly adjusted with just one bolt. And an integral, manual knife sharpener makes in-field touchups fast and easy. Other standard features include a metal detector; slip-clutch overload protection; cab-controlled hydraulic header lift and tongue swing; and cab-controlled electric spout and chute.

A unique kernel cracker (optional) features two rollers of different size to crack kernels open, rather than using extreme pressure to crush the crop. When not needed, the top roller can be quickly raised out of the way, or removed entirely.

"The 1500's rollers can be set further apart than the rollers on kernel processors that rely on pressure," points out Solon, "This eliminates the need for high compression pressures that put tremendous stress on bearings and other components. What's more, they are mounted in-line between the cutting cylinder and blower where they do not appreciably interfere with crop flow or capacity. This improves performance and efficiency while also minimizing plugging and crop-flow restriction. In addition, the kernel processor permits longer cut lengths to increase effective fiber content, while still releasing more sugars from cracked kernels and broken cobs."

Other popular options include rope or electric wagon disconnect; tandem axles; 50-gallon (190-liter) water tank; rear spotlight; vertical and horizontal spout extensions; and 230-degree spout rotation.

Header choices include 7-foot (2.1-meter) pickup, two-row corn head for 28- to 36-inch (710- to 915-mm) rows, and three-row corn head for 30-inch (760-mm) rows.

Mabee Promoted To Business Unit Controller At Chore-Time Brock

MILFORD, Ind. — William Mabee has been promoted to controller for the Roxell U.S./ Sibley business unit in Anderson, Mo., and the Chore-Time Hog Production Systems business unit in Schaefferstown, Pa., according to Ivan Longueville, and George Zimmerman, general managers of the business units. Both business units are part of the Chore-Time Brock (CTB Inc.) family of companies.

Mabee has served as financial reporting manager at CTB since 1998. Prior to coming to CTB, he had 10 years of experience in accounting and financial analysis. He is a graduate of Ball State University, Muncie, Indiana, where he received a bachelor's degree in accounting. He is also certified as a public accountant. A native of Wabash, Ind., Mabee now resides in Warsaw, Ind.

Chore-Time Brock (CTB) is based in Milford, Ind., U.S.A. Founded in 1952, the company is a leading designer, manufacturer and marketer of systems for the poultry, hog, egg production, and grain industries. CTB operates from facilities in the U.S.A., Europe and Latin America as well as through a worldwide distribution network. The company's web address is www.ctbinc.com.

New Agco ST Catalog Showcases Compact Tractor Models

ATLANTA, Ga. — The latest 23 to 44 gross engine horsepower Agco ST Series compact tractors and implements are featured in a new 20-page color catalog from Agco.

"The opening spread explains that these tractors are the first to carry the 'Agco' name," points out Phil Jones, general marketing manager. "Yet their heritage goes back to the mid 1800s with respected ancestral names including Allis Chalmers, Oliver, Minneapolis-Moline, Massey Harris and Ferguson, and includes many industry firsts.

Today, the Agco ST is a proud stablemate with the likes of Massey Ferguson, Agco Allis, White, Gleaner, Agcostar and Fendt. After reading this informative catalog, you'll understand why we say 'Agco ST tractors have been 100 years in the making."

All six models comprising the Agco ST line include liquid-cooled diesel engines, four-wheel drive, power steering, three-point hitch, rear PTO, differential lock, and steel hood and fenders as standard equipment. Features available on select models include hydrostatic transmission with cruise control, PowerShuttle transmissions with creeper gears, mid PTO, draft control, auxiliary hydraulics, and tilt steering columns. Tire options include R1 agricultural, R3 turf and R4 industrial treads.

Depending on the model, 60- and 72-inch (1,524- and 1,829-mm) mid-mount finishing mowers are available with direct shaft drive and deep-tunnel decks to easily trim small or huge lawns.

Job- and tractor-matched Quick-Attach front loaders can handle up to 1,600 pounds (726 kilograms) with an assortment of quick-attach buckets and tools.

For digging and backfilling, add a Quick-Attach backhoe with digging depths down to 7.5 feet (2,286 millimeters) with dual, double-acting 2.5-inch (64-millimeter) cylinders on both the boom and bucket.

Front dozer blades in 5- and 6-foot (1.5- and 1.8-meter) widths with hydraulic lift and mechanical or hydraulic angle adjustments are ideal for moving tons of snow, dirt and gravel.

Agco ST tractors are backed by on-the-spot financing through Agco Finance™ with competitive interest rates, flexible payment plans and commercial leasing options. An "ironclad" warranty covers everything for two full years or 1,500 hours, whichever comes first. An extended warranty is available to double the coverage. In addition, Agco ST dealers are top professionals in the tractor business with the factory-trained staff, and the parts inventory and support needed to keep Agco ST tractors on the job.

DeKalb Research Breakthroughs Boost Grower Profit Potential

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Monsanto's DeKalb Genetics Corporation introduces 21 new corn hybrids for 2002 featuring traits and technologies that may increase grower profitability.

"DeKalb is currently investing more research dollars into every kernel than any other corn company," says Dale Sorensen, Monsanto Branded Corn Technical Manager. "The scientific expertise and research facilities of DeKalb Genetics and Monsanto — combined and integrated — are an unparalleled force for discovery."

New corn hybrids feature innovations such as improved drydown, YieldGard® Corn Borer trait for season-long insect protection, Roundup Ready® herbicide tolerance, and YieldGard Corn Borer with Roundup Ready corn.

At DeKalb, researchers working on genetic traits and corn breeders working on the latest germplasm are integrating their efforts. As a result, Sorensen explains, the company can incorporate new traits into elite germplasm very quickly.

"DeKalb develops new hybrids at an unprecedented rate. We're running 1.2 million two-row, 23-foot long yield trial plots at any given time, testing 85,000 hybrids at 255 sites across the country. We run nearly 700 farmer/cooperator strip trials, one of the nation's most extensive company-run testing programs, to ensure that our products are locally proven."

"When we look at developing hybrids, we make decisions based on the needs of growers in very specific geographies" Sorensen adds. "At DeKalb, we're focused not on introducing more hybrids — but on introducing better hybrids, featuring bigger yield improvements and traits that provide value to the grower."

DeKalb hybrids with improved drydown can provide growers significant reductions in drying costs. With high energy costs, Sorensen points out, such hybrids can mean a significant savings to growers.

Six additional DeKalb hybrids have obtained Residue Proven™ status for high performance in reduced tillage (DKC42-22 YG, DKC44-42, DKC44-46, DKC53-32 YG, DKC 53-34 and DKC58-52 YG). Eleven Roundup Ready corn hybrids have now earned the Residue Proven arrow, meeting stringent criteria for high yields, strong emergence and seedling growth. These elite hybrids also feature a complete disease package, including resistance to Gray leaf spot, Northern and Southern corn leaf blight, Eye spot and Anthracnose leaf blight and stalk rot.

Invaders Are Harming Pennsylvania Forests

Rance Scott Harmon
Penn State
Cooperative Extension

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Non-native plants are silently invading our forests and displacing native plants. While some non-native plants have been with us a long while and pose little threat to natural habitats, others can grow explosively and wreak havoc on entire forest ecosystems.

The most harmful non-native plants are invasive — meaning they grow and spread rapidly to cover vast areas. Native plants usually are not invasive because predators, diseases, parasites and other natural processes keep them in check. However, when a plant is introduced to an area that lacks these natural controls, it often outcompetes and displaces native plants.

As we build more roads and residential developments, we fragment forestlands and disturb natural environments. Invasive plants easily colonize the disturbed areas and enter adjacent woodlands. Competition from invasive plants reduces native plant diversity, and can harm animals that depend on native plants for food and shelter. Invasive plants also can interfere with the growth of new trees.

Healthy native plant communities are the best defense against invasive plants. Regular monitoring and swift action are keys for preventing invasive plants from spreading and creating large-scale problems. Once established, invasive species can be very difficult and expensive to control. Recommended control methods vary from cutting and mowing to herbicide application, depending on the type of plant, degree of infestation and other factors.

The Pennsylvania Forest Stewardship Program has information about the identification and control of invasive plants. Call 1-800-235-WISE (toll free) to request free copies of the Invasive Plants in Pennsylvania, prepared by the Pennsylvania Bureau of Forestry, and Invasive Weeds Fact Sheets, prepared by Penn State's School of Forest Resources Extension.

The Pennsylvania Forest Stewardship Program — sponsored by the Pennsylvania Bureau of Forestry and the USDA Forest Service — provides private forestland owners with information and assistance to promote healthy and productive forests.

The following Websites also provides useful information about invasive plants:

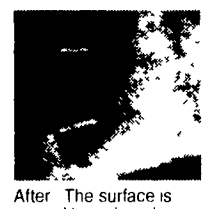
WARNING! DETERIORATING CONCRETE FROM CORN JUICE!

WARNING, ALL SILO OWNERS

Check your silo now for rotten staves. If you have been using your silo for 10 to 15 years for either corn silage or haylage, it is time to SHOTCRETE

RESURFACES INTERIORS:
- Coats the silo's interior
- Protects feed in storage
- Durable, tough, acid-resistant
- Increase useful life
- Economical

Before The silo s interior with plaster damage and stave exposed



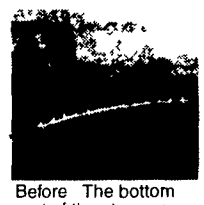
After The surface is reconditioned and a new thick tough surface will protect stored feed

REPAIRS HOLES:
- Repairs even large holes
- Up to twice the strength of the original stave
- Rapid application
- Durable surface

Before A hole is worn completely through the silo wall

After With the hole repaired by ShotCrete and a new surface applied the silo is ready for years of use

EXTENDS USEFUL LIFE:
- Support for old foundations
- Special repairs can be made... quickly and economically
- Little or no forming needed
- Stronger than the original



Before The bottom part of the staves are completely worn away

After The ShotCrete System repairs and replaces the missing structure

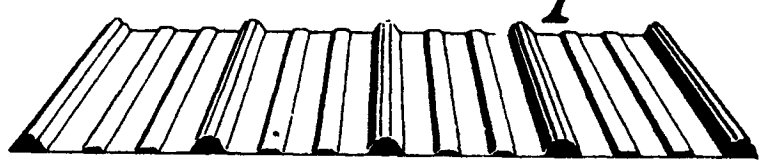
Each Quality Structure is Individually Designed & Engineered to Meet Your Specifications

Rural Economy



Cost-efficient Centurydrain® roofing and siding is on some of the best looking buildings in the country.

Build with Centurydrain roofing and siding and you've built a money-wise structure. Full-hard, high tensile galvanized steel, and an exclusive drain channel for a dry interior give you a building that'll handle years of hard duty and hard weather. Good looking, too. Crisp lines and plenty of bright, long-lasting colors make Wheeling Centurydrain as handsome as it is economical.

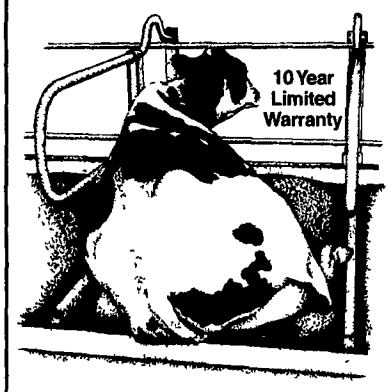
Waterbeds for Cows



ALANTA®
A member of the LinPoly group of companies Patent Pending

The ALANTA Waterbed for cows is a revolutionary product, comfortable, safe and hygienic. It clearly improves your cows' well-being and therefore promotes higher milk production. It is the ultimate stall floor covering for the modern, animal-friendly dairy farm.

WELL MADE
The ALANTA Waterbed is made of two rubber layers with a water-filled compartment in between. GD-Enerka gives a 10-year guarantee.

COMFORTABLE
The waterbed molds itself to the cow's shape. It's cool in summer and pleasantly warm in winter.

SAFE
Thanks to the non-slip rubber upper surface, the cow is gripped firmly and cannot slip off. In this way the ALANTA waterbed keeps damage to hooves to a minimum.

BEEF TIPS
Introducing calves to feedlot rations

Research in Alberta has shown that calves entering feedlots often experience "neophobia," a fear of new things. One solution is to introduce calves to feedlot rations while they are still on their mothers. Cattle given this eating experience early in life are not only more inclined to accept that particular food later on, but they are more likely to try new feeds. Studies have also found timing to be important, with cattle consuming more dry matter in late afternoon and evening.

SWEETCAKE 16NU

FEED SUPPLEMENT BLOCKS FOR THE LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY
• High Natural Protein • No Urea • Fat Enhanced
• Balanced Supplementation • Safe For All Livestock Classes

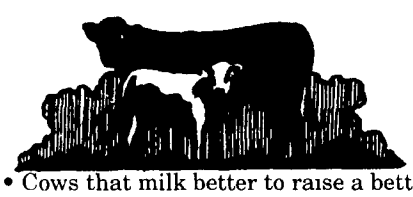
Sweetcake Advantages

- Aids in making the best use of your available forage
- Promotes a more even herd consumption, with 24-hour availability to all cattle
- Reduces labor to save you money and give you more time to make important management decisions
- Supplies much-needed vitamins and minerals that forage lacks to help your cattle perform to their genetic potential
- Supplies fat in most formulations to enhance energy intake

For Dairy

- Replacement heifers that grow out soundly and economically
- Body condition on dry cows so they can return to lactation, producing at the maximum potential
- Healthier herds, with essential trace minerals that help prevent metritis, retained placenta and other health problems
- Prompt re-breeding, thanks to essential nutrients

For Beef



- Stronger, healthier calves at birth
- Heavier Calves at weaning
- Cows that cycle better for improved conception rates
- Cows that milk better to raise a better calf

- AVAILABLE IN 200 LB. SIZE -

KEYSTONE MILLS
CUSTOM MIX PROGRAM
GIVES YOU
OPTIONS IN FEEDING
Your Dairy Herd
Call us today for a feeding program built to fit your Dairy Herd and your Production Goals.

For maximum performance and income over feed cost, rations should be balanced to provide the optimum levels of degradable and undegradable protein, nonstructural and structural (fiber) carbohydrate as well as minerals and vitamins. This allows for maximum utilization of the rumen microbes and total ration efficiency. Because your needs may be different from your neighbor's, we adjust the following nutrients and ingredients to fit your needs and goals

- Amino Acids
- Protein
- By-Pass Protein
- Energy
- Fiber
- Calcium
- Phosphorus
- Salt
- Vitamins & Trace Minerals
- Organic Trace Minerals
- Multi-Protein Sources
- Added Animal Fat
- Rumen Inert Fats
- Buffers
- Yeast

'PARTICULAR' DAIRY PRODUCERS SATISIFIED By PURINA PROGRAM

Herdsman and recordkeeper Mike Bedford showing off production records for the milking cows on High Hart Farm.

At High Hart Farm in Sullivan County, the farmer and son team of Bill and Jeff Hart along with herdsman Mike Bedford put a lot of thought and effort into keeping the 250-cow Holstein herd healthy and productive.

Besides employing good management practices such as fan and water-droplet systems for cooling the animals, pasturing the cows on a seasonal basis, and hiring the regular services of an excellent hoof trimmer, the Harts rely on a Purina feeding program.

"We're fussy here," Jeff Hart said of the High Hart approach to dairying.

The farm has been in the Hart family since the mid 1800s, said father Bill Hart. He remembers his own father using Purina feeds "when I was a kid" for the small dairy herd they kept on the farm.

Bill points to the high level of attention given to the feeding program by Purina representative Josh Harvatine as a major reason for its success.

Harvatine visits the farm once a week to test the moisture content of the corn, alfalfa, and grass forages the Harts grow on about 600 acres. Along with regular protein testing, he uses the information to balance the rations for high and low production groups and the dry cow group.

Replacement calves and heifers are also grown on a Purina program.

The dry cows need special attention, Harvatine said. Since dry matter consumption decreases to about half the level of cows in production, it is an extra challenge to make sure they are getting all the nutrients they need.

"I keep a really close eye on the dry cows," he said.

For the TMR fed to cows in production, Purina provides a custom concentrate tailored to the types of forages grown in the area.

Herdsman Mike Bedford pointed out a daily average of 75 pounds per milking cow for the month of July. The herd is milked twice a day, without the use of any growth hormones.

With about 1.2 million pounds of milk produced annually for each fulltime man on the farm, the Hart's operation is running at a high rate of efficiency, Harvatine said.

A big part of what makes the Purina program so successful is that it helps keep the cows healthy and problem-free, Bill Hart said. He noted that milk fever and twisted stomachs are rare events on High Hart farm.

"Josh is a good feed man," Bill concluded. "He's better than a vet."
